Hello, and welcome to the very last ever ish of Your Sinclair. Within this conveniently portable tome, you'll find all manner of features telling you just how thoroughly splendid YS was. In addition, there's a miniedition of YS proper, in order to round off all our outstanding series.

'We hope you enjoy coming along on this little trip down memory lane,' said Val Doonican in his 1978 Christmas Special, and, do you know, we like to think that he was a really irritatingly nice man whose jumpers should have been burnt under the Geneva Convention. But anyway.

If you're a regular YS reader, chin up, still that quivering lip and settle back with this commemorative goodbye ish sort of thang. And if you're a casual reader who's just picked up YS for the first time, why didn't you buy us before we were closed down, you bast?

Before you go, a word on the price. £2.95 for a 68-page mag without a covertape may seem a bit steep, but – hey! – remember that... er... hang on. Blimey. It is a bit steep, actually. (Snip! A Publisher)

The Jugglers, eh? A fine body of bods. Here we get a few words of wisdom from, er, the ones we could track down.

Oh no. I've been persuading so many people to stump up their few words. I've completely forgotten to do mine. And (as Andy's so kindly reminded me) I'm now the last, and I'm holding up the design of the page. Yikes. So, er, um, YS. Blimey. (This is tricky.) I suppose I could yatter on about my love of the Speccy, and how I while away many pleasant hours by breaking the law and hacking my games on to my beloved +D disk, but that would be awfully tedious and I'd probably get a nasty letter from FAST. Er, I could (if pressed) relate the story of my YS interview, when I turned up in a sandwich board, carrying little flags telling everyone how brilliant I was (and failed to get the job). Or I could throw in a crafty reversal sort of thang whereby I built up expectations by talking about the best ever Speccy mag, then revealing it to be Crash – but quickly averting disaster by mentioning that when Crash became indescribably crap I turned to YS and lot it was extremely silly, or something.

Actually, it's probably best if I stick to some general observations. Firstly, YS is so spanky because it's the silly bits that count – nobody gives a tinker's trouser if you stick to the subject or not. Mentioning the game in a review is seen as a sort of added bonus. YS is all about being funny – the legendary Tetley Tea Folk Pssstl, the even more legendary photo love stories, trillions of other non-Speccy-related stuff – that's what counts. And that's why I love it. And that's why I'm heartbroken it's closing.

And now, in traditional YS fashion, an entirely unnecessary

YS has always been needlessly extravegent. Here, Jonathan was flown to Barbados simply to illustrate the Jonathan was flown talands (ineffectively).

remember being strapped in front of an Apple Mac for the first time and given vague instructions about something called Your Sinclair.' Lawks a lordy! I'll never get the hang of this'!' I exclaimed, pacing up and down the freshly-mown Shed pato. Nowadays, of course, I can sit back in my big comfy chair, take a puff from my Havana cigar, smile knowingly and think to myself, 'Lawks a lordy! I'll never get the hang of this!'

I started off doing mostly the black and white pages, but was gradually let loose on the big colour double page spreads. What fun!

Sal (Bun In The Oven) Meddings took over from Kev (Delroy George) Hibbert as Art Editor from ish 57 (September 1990). The two of us set about redesigning the magazine, 'colourful but legible' being the watch words. Along the way, my beloved crap bike (quite rightly) emerged as a celebrity in its own right, becoming the subject of the occasional doodlebug and even a game! Andy Ounsted's

Crap Bike Simulator was reviewed by YS's very own heartthrob Rich Pelley as part of his Crap Game Comer in issue 61. (Yikes.)

Sal left us in the summer of 1991 to pop her sprog, and handed the baton over to me. Two years later and I'm still here. To date I still can't play Speccy games to save my life, but putting YS together each month is always much more than Just A Job. I shall miss it. (Sniff sniff awaaagh sniff sniff.)

MATT BIELBY

Crap and Oscar ceremony-ish though it sounds, the first, and most important, thing about Your Sinclair was always the people. Such a roll call of talent - so many well-known names, many of whom have gone on to bigger, but not necessarily better, things. There are old Editors who since became publishers and more - Kevin Cox, Teresa Maughan. Old writers who've since become Editors: Andy Ide, Jackie Ryan, Linda Barker. And so many others the rest of the 'big names' read like a role call of the sharpest talent in the business: Marcus Berkmann, now of the Independent and the Daily Mail; the supremely funny Duncan MacDonald; David Wilson, who later became editor of Zero, and now works at top software house Electronic Arts; Jonathan Davies from Super Play; Phil South; David McCandless; Rich Pelley; Sally Meddings; Kev Hibbert; Catherine Higgs and, of course, the current guys. What a totally bloody brilliant bunch of people.

Two other things make Your Sinclair so significant. One is the influence it's had on magazines like Amiga Power, Super Play, Game Zone, and the old Zero - indeed, there's hardly a games mag out there now that doesn't in some way try to ape the distinctive Your Sinclair combination of wit. cleverness (without, I think, being cleverclever) and attention to detail. Secondly, it was always, and remains, a bloody good read - just try taking a quick look through a pile of back issues some day. It can't be done - you'll find you have to commit hours to it, every issue of Your Sinclair being so packed with good bits it can't help but drag you in. It was something special, Your Sinclair, and I'm going to miss it terribly.

ANDY IDE YS? Oh blimey. My best YS memories were of the Dennis days up in London with 'T'zer Teresa. 'Whistlin' Rick' David, Teapot' Dunc and 'Me' Me. It was my first proper job, y'know, er, Prod Edding (Wa-hey! Oo-er! Etc), and I can remember coming into the office on my first day and seeing all these people buzzing around Macs in this complete chaotic tip and thinking "I've made it! I'm in the real world. What cruel tricks fate plays upon us, eh, Spec-chums? For I was actually in YS which is about as far removed from reality as you can get without a really strong cup of my special herbal tea. Or something.

Er, what else? YS was certainly one of the best, funniest and most irreverent mags on the shelves at the time, but you probably know that already. Um. Oh, spoons

It all started innocuously enough, Jane Richardson phoned me up and asked me if I'd like to edit Your Sinclair. I said 'Yowzerl' and moved my skateboard, skate-pads, spare AC-90 trucks and early collection of EMF singles into the shed. Before long though, I'd been touched by the hippy grooviness of the magazine and its team and left YS to find myself at a skate park in Swanage. Needless to say I didn't. Find myself that is. But I did > buy a very fetching pair of Mambo shorts. Highlights of my all too brief tenure at YS include: Linda's amazing collection of WWF figurines, the Alton Towers photo-shoot, the river photo-shoot, Jon's and James' captions, those incredibly annoying kids from the Orkney Islands who'd always phone up when we were on deadline, Lisa's Inny Outy column, the Ernie cartoon strip and Andy O's crap bike. Which is still crap.

Still, it's all over now and at least you get the goodbyes in one great big chunk rather than over the course of a weekend like they did with Cheers. I'm jolly proud to have been part of the most influential computer magazine ever, even if I don't get to keep the negatives. The next time you're confronted by that wall of computer magazines in WH Smith's, scan your way down the shelves and you'll realise just how much effect this bats-arse, not-of-this-earth, hokey, mad, bizarre and completely unique mag has affected everything that followed. Goodbye YS, you can keep the colander.

LINDA BARKER

I remember buying my very first copy of YS, I'd spotted an ad for a staff writer in the university careers library and I just had to pop down to the sweet shop and buy a copy. I was sold! I applied for the job and was asked to come down to Bath for an interview. I humedly contacted a friend in Bristol, packed my duffel bag and left!

After the interview I went back to London and moped around for a week, convinced that I'd done appallingly. The day I got the job offer from Future my family must have rejoiced as much as me!

What YS means to me above everything else is working on Your Sinclair. But I soon realised what a nice thing YS was. It covered the Speccy which, although not the most powerful computer, was certainly the happiest. I remarked to Andy Ide (before he became Andy Hutch, Linda Barker and finally changed his name to Jonathan Nash), that I believed Sinclair had put a happiness chip in the Spectrum. He told me to get

It's little known that Prince Charles read YS from an early age, as did Norman Lamont. But there have been other, more successful cases where it has added much to young lives. It made folk laugh, GOOD TIMES with BEAUT PEOPLE!

Looking back, it's not the late nights or the nonarrival of games that I remember - it's the chatter, the laughter, the photo-shoots and that great feeling you get when an issue comes back from the printers. Actually, I think that's my enduring memory of YS - opening the first box of issues to come in and poring over them despairing at any mistakes, rejoicing at the many pages that really worked. It used to amaze me that I was actually getting paid for this!

Now call me biased, but I think the world's going to be a slightly sadder place without Your Sinclair – it's certainly brightened up a few years of my life.

JONATHAN DAVIES

I bought my Spectrum in 1983. I've always loved it, and I always will, even though it spends most of its life under my bed these days. So when YS came along I was delighted. Hurrah, I thought. (My vocabulary already having become irrevocably altered.) And I was even more delighted when, shortly afterwards, I found myself working for it.

Now, there aren't many magazines for which I'd have been prepared to write the tips pages two years running. And even fewer that would inspire me to compile their type-in pages for month after month. But YS tips and type-ins weren't like other magazines', and I didn't mind doing them at all. Not very much, anyway. At least, not to start off with. Actually, I hated it. But there were lots of nice things about working for YS - the people (there are none finer), the unrivalled sense of office camaraderie, and the money.

And I had just as much fon reading YS as I did writing for it. It somehow managed to be funny, knowledgable, stylish and completely useless, all at the same time. No matter how many people joined or left the team, what got sellotaped to the front of it, how few games it had in it, or how small it shrunk, Your Sinclair never stopped being the best Spectrum mag in the world.

And now it's gone.

MARCUS BERKMANN

I started working on YS from issue 15 - that's Pebruary 1987, if you can think back that far without being physically sick. They were happy days. Crammed like battery hens into a tiny office full of unlabelled cassettes, press releases and six-month-old ham sandwiches (all of which belonged to Phil), we worked ludicrously long hours for virtually no money at all, only to be told at the end of every month that our work was 'complete crap'. Which, at the beginning, it may well have been, for YS was only third in circulation terms to those ancient warhorses Crash and Sinclair User.

But at least we were trying something different. In fact, by shamelessly aping Smash Hits we were doing something no other computer mag had yet thought of we were being tunny. Look around you now and you'll find that almost all of the game mags of 1993 have been influenced to a greater or lesser extent by Your Sinctair of 1987/1988. Hot? We were so hot you could have fried an egg on us. Soon Crash was no more and Sinclair User was in steep and irreversible decline. How we laughed, Six years later I am writing TV reviews for the Daily Mail and a weekly sports column for the Independent On Sunday. But what of those glorious years? Would I swap my current enormous wealth and far-reaching fame for those halcyon days toiling in poverty for Your Sinclair? Not on your nelly.

The ex-Ed, who's now a Publisher, kept saying he was far too busy to see us. But we pushed into his office anyway (chucking out some boring bloke in a suit who was trying to sign something) and shot questions at him.

'So, Kevin, what are your memories of Your Sinclair?'

'Oh my God, what have you done? That deal was worth over £450,000.'

'What was T'zer really like, then? And Davey? And did Marcus really banter?'

'Aaarghh.' (Kevin jumps out of window.)
'Blimey.' (We leave quietly.)

One thing's for sure, my time at YS has indubitably taught me values – chiefly the values of waffling. If, when my journalist career began, anyone had beseeched me to write an article of what Your Sinclair well, was going to mean to me, then I wouldn't have had an inkling of where to start. But look! Four years on and here I am, 64 words through, having made not one relevant or coherent point at all.

The art of concealing the truth has also been related to me over the years. I mean, being totally honest, my job at YS has done little more than provide me with an opportunity to make a fast buck before moving on to bigger and better things. Serendipitiously (YS has also shown me that you can't beat a good thesaurus) I now know far better than to mention things like that.

And best of all, Your Sinclair has told me how to combine my waffling and lying skills, especially when fabricating a reason why copy is late. Actually, this article is going to be late too. And when I explained to Jonathan this was because I've just had both my arms amputated so it's going to take me a bit longer to type it all out with my nose', he believed me. Editors, eh? What suckers. (That's it, this time you really are fired. Ed)

It seemed like more, especially with first Kevin 'Kippers' Cox and then T'zer breathing down your neck, and Sara Biggs biting me bum every time I got my reviews in late. But it was the best fun I ever had and I got paid for it too. Eventually. (Arf.)

Investigative Journalist Jonathan Davies leaves no jokes untold in this in-depth report revealing where YS came from, what happened in it, and whose fault it all was.

It began in a poky little office in central London, on a shoestring budget, amid fear and uncertainty. It ended in, erm, a poky little shed in Bath, on a shoestring budget etc. But in between, YS became the most popular, most successful, most biggest sellingist Spectrum magazine the world has ever known. In 10,000 dynamic pages it delivered 3,118 game reviews, 2,589 interesting pieces of news, 14,509 Ed's comments, 236,623 spelling mistakes, 19,422 examples of juvenile innuendo, 12.5 miles of hexdump, 125 letters from appalled parents, 417 unintelligible readers' maps of Codemasters games, and three pictures of the Queen*. It was first with all the latest Speccy-related news. It told you exactly which games to buy, and which ones not to. It cemented an eternal bond between Spec-chums across the globe. And yet it was completely crap.

1983-85

Sportscene Specialist Press (who?) launched a brand new bi-monthly magazine called Your Spectrum. Piloted by one Roger Munford, and printed on shiny, heavily-starched paper, the first issue told you how to build your own keyboard buffer and how to break out of machine code loops, and rounded up stateof-the-art chess packages. Later issues followed up with features on a DIY joystick interface,

48K, the ZIP compiler, and printing out screens on a printer. Hex dumps came with detailed assembly listings. Even letters had hex dumps in them. Every issue came with a free copy of QL User. And games (at least, those you didn't have to type in yourself) were confined to the Spectrum Soft pages, reviewed by the members of local computer clubs. Eek.

T'zer had moved on to try to discover what it is that publishers actually do, and YS had entered what has since become known (not without irony) as the Matt Bielby Golden Age. It had got a new Deputy Ed - David Wilson - too, and a rather frightening-looking Production Editor -Andy Ide. And there followed a year of tumultuous upsets at Your Sinclair, not least of which was the shock move from smelly London to swish Bath, leaving David and Duncan behind. Bewildering comings and goings ensued - the recruitment of a whole new design team, for starters: Sal Meddings (Designer) and Andy Ounsted (Design Assistant). Oh, and Linda Barker stepped in as Staff Writer.

After a few months of stability, 1991 quickly deteriorated into another chair-swapping frenzy. Out went Matt (to a posh 16-bit mag), up went Andy (to Editor), in came James Leach (as Games Editor), off went Sal (to pop a sprog), up went Andy O (to Designer), in came Maryanne Booth (as Design Assistant) and finally, barely having adjusted his new chair to the right height, off went Andy Ide (to a bicycle mag), handing his red pen to Andy Hutchinson. Criminy. As for YS itself, while sales were going up and up, it was starting to look, well, just a teeny bit thin.

THE HIGHS

- The Smash Tapes became 4-Packs which became 6-Packs which became Magnificent 7s. Spec-chums had never had it so good Things bumbled along happily for a while. But then... oh no! It started happening again! And with a new twist - empty chairs! First James vanished (absorbed into new mag Gamesmaster), and then Hutch disappeared as well! (Nobody's quite sure to where.) And Maryanne! That just left Linda struggling to regain control, while Andy O and new bug Jon Pillar tried to calm the passengers. Even the top brass didn't escape. Jane Richardson, who'd been smiling down on YS since the move to Rain lashed against the Shed. Inside, with the door firmly padlocked, Linda, Andy and Jonathan gripped each others' hands, their eyes wide with terror. What was happening? What mysterious force was draining YS of its team? Of its games? Of its pages? Their only hope, they knew, was to cling to what remained with every fibre of their beings. But it wasn't to be! A momentary lapse of concentration and fwoosh! - Linda was gone (a victim of another pesky 16-bit mag). The rain beat down harder...

Ammonites

- . The gerbils picture?
- No, it's no good. Sorry was worse. Getting an overall score of six from the Your Spectrum reviewers (who seemed disappointed it wasn't a spreadsheet) or Stuart missing the game out of his Top 100 allogether. Then we decided the worst thing of all was that some of you may never have played Chaos. And that's a scary thought, it is, unarquiably, the best multiplayer game in the world. Ever. And

COUNT DUCKULA 2

Atemative surpassed themselves with this utterly superb game based on the cartoon series. You (as Duckula) have to leap around platforms on the Planet Cute, and can shoot the cute inhabitants with a ketchup gun. It's got mindblowing graphics, stunning sound and the playability goes right off the scale. You'll be coming back to it time and again, ong after you've tired of the likes of Mercenary and Head Over Heels.

Absolutely amazing. Oh, sorry, I seem to have gone mad.

vision where you sort of viewed the screen from the side and slightly above your ship. Everything moved in perspective as you passed it, and shadows changed angle accordingly. You could even forgive the relatively small playing area because of the beautiful rotating Earth sitting in the centre of the screen. Pete Cooks's finish hour. Apart from Yau Cell. And Academy. And Micronaut One, and lots of other parties.

The game that introduced platforms And, d'you know, the funny thing is, hardly any of the deluge that followed matched up to Manic Miner. Pixelperfect movement and pixel-perfect timing combine to make it one of the most splendicious games of all time. Two spook facts: Manic Miner was directly responsible for the birth of the Whizz-Kid Programmer so beloved of the tabloid press, and the whole thing was stolen from Miner 2049'er on the Atari. We like Diana Rigg, us. (And we're crap at finding screens from old games.)

Poor Odin. They so badly wanted to be Ultimate (they even called themselves Odin Computer Graphics after ACG, Ultimate's parent company). So they wrote the beautiful (and very Ultimatesque) Nodes Of Yesod, full of excellent graphics, superlative excellent graphics, superlative gameplay and magnificent clever touches (like the mole which eats through walls). And then they spoiled it all by doing Arc Of Yesod – a carbon copy of Nodes. Or were they just taithfully following Ultimate? (Arf.)

f you were Bomb Jack 2, you still wouldn't be quite as crap as Pitfighter.

PITFIGHTER

Oh searle, dearle me. So excited was the programmer by his wonderful graphic scaling routine for Pittighter, that he completely forgot to put in a game. (Clot.) Mind you, there wasn't much of one there in the first place (the main attraction – if that's the word – of the coin-op were the digitised graphics) so perhaps it's not that much of a loss. Probably the kindest thing to say about Pittighter is that you can complete the game without quite realising you're playing it. (Which isn't very kind at all it.)

SKOOL DAZE

One of the Specty grants, this genuinely funny, genuinely original school game appeared without hype from a tiny company and blew everyone away. As Eric the errant schoolboy you had to steal your report before the Head expelled you, along the way firing water pistois and cataputts at everyone in sight. The atmosphere was second-to-none (you could even write on the blackboards) and the gameplay ace. Follow-ups & ack To Skool and Contact Sam Cruise were also to (natch).

SUPER SPRINT

SUPER SPRINT
Four cars, right? Three of them are computer-controlled (two if it's a two-player game) and you have to finish first to qualify for the next track. Collecting golden spanners littering the course meant you could upgrade your car, and there were eight racetracks with tunnels and jumps and underpasses and whirlwinds and gates and stuff. Sounds fab, eh? And it was, but for one thing, it had crap collision detection, so you kept bouncing off bits of track THAT OBVIOUSLY WEREN'T THERE. Glurk.

Actually from Bored Of The Rings, but we simply don't care a row of buttons.

The Hobbit was most people's introduction to adventures, and made Melbourne House's name – despite having thousands (and thousands) of bugs. The sequel, Lord Of The Rings, took 'over 15 months to write' and was tal.—The first location featured a set of photographs (yeah, right) and the prog was so badly-written it took two whole minutes to move between rooms. Shadows Of Mordor was a bit of an improvement (but not much). All is all,

Wonderboy

Blah blah no screenshot blah blah. But at least it's not Diana Rigg again.

THE YOUNG ONES

Hit Squad

What a scoop for Orpheus! The biggest TV prog of the '80s – and they licensed it Instantly promising a 'bowel-shatteringly funny' game with lots of violence and rude bits, they took out loads of ads, gave loads of interviews, did loads of previews with loads of ogmputer mags, went away for a bit and came back with a trashy Everyone's A Wally clone which fully exploited the Young Ones tie-in by, er, swearing at you. At least it wasn't a platform beat-iem-up though, eh? (Hardy har.)

Well, there you go. Not every single Speccy game ever, but every one YS has reviewed. (And a bit of the hardware as well.) And why did Leigh do it? Because he was 'bored with Philosophy at college'.

Blimey. We're lost for words at such senseless dedication. So here's a final pic of Diana Rigg. Arf.

IS PLAY-OFF

t was the event of, er, the evening. Eight topclass Chaos players, drawn from the ranks of YS, competing in a Grand Play-Off. No quarter asked or given, the last man left alive declared the winner. The idea had been simmering for months, but, at last, a day was found when all the contestants could attend. Andy had bought an enormous bag of crunchy snacks, and a complete collection of The Sweet was poised beside the tape deck. At the appointed time, the contestants arrived. Rich Pelley, flown in at vast expense from his luxurious summer hideaway, constantly pointing his best side at Andy O's camera, even though the lens cap was still on. Steve Anderson, from whom no Chaos cheat or advantageous bug was safe. Craig Broadbent, who had that very month supplied a comprehensive list of helpful notes to Tipshop, but who hinted that not all had been revealed. Chris Buxton, who had picketted the Shed immediately upon hearing about the competition, chanting loud slogans and revealing trivia about the Ultimate programmers in an attempt to prove his Speccy-owning credentials. The Ed.

who had rashly

announced himself to be 'officially the world's best Chaos player' and had now to earn that title in mortal combat. Jonathan Davies, who dimly remembered playing Chaos once in 1987 but who was confident of foxing the others by not quite knowing what he was doing. Jeff Braine, +3 Musketeer and 'a bit of a wiz' as he comically described himself. (How we laughed.) And last, but by no means least, Britain's Number One Gameplayer Stuart Campbell, who had completely forgotten about the competition and had gone home to wash his hair. So we used Stephanie, the YS rubber shark, instead.

The rules

Chaos in a nutshell: it's one of the Speccy's best ever games . It's a take-it-in-turns wargame with magic • It features up to eight wizards chucked into a closed arena and left to get on with it . It sports monsters, spells, magic attacks, magic defences, the undead, bonus spells, illusionary creatures and, er, stuff . It's outrageously good fun . It's been on the covertape twice. (Issues 57 and 89, fact fans.)

Due to the numerous cheats available to the experienced Chaos player, a complete ban on cheating was instituted. No 'moving away from an attacking monster by attacking an empty adjacent square'. No 'gooey blobbing an illusionary creature then killing the blob to make the creature spookily real'. No 'undead > wizards on horseback'. (And so on.)

> > The preparation After ringing Stuart and mocking both him and his wet hair down the phone lines, the contestants drew lots to decide the order of play. And lo, it was as follows: Craig (top left), Jonathan (top middle), Chris (top right), Rich (middle left), the Ed (middle right), Steph the shark (bottom left; a Speccy-controlled player), Steve (bottom middle) and Jeff (bottom right).

The first couple of turns were uneventful, with each player taking care to build up their forces, except for Craig who, before he could exploit his superior mobility, was instantly killed by Rich's newly-created wraith. (Oh dear.) Jonathan failed to cast a creature at all, and was reduced to standing quietly at the top of the screen, hoping no one would notice him. Chris slunk into a magic castle, the Ed conjured a pair of wraiths and Steve awarded himself a magic shield. Jeff, > feigning distress at his poor selection of spells, successfully cast a giant and began chasing Steve into the corner of the arena. Steve was saved by Jonathan, who more or less accidentally subverted Jeff's giant to his control and tried a bodyguard. The Ed theos, you can run, but you can't hide. Well, y lly run that much either. But anyway, here's th bringing it back to act as

GET ON BOARD WITH THE DOUBLE DECKERS!

Rich's wraths (as Rich's wraiths were known) were to dominate the central area at this point. You're a lost to dominate the central area at this point. You're a lost soul once a wraith gets on your tall (madam)- decided to hang about by Chris's castle on the quiet side of the screen, conjuring a centaur in order to make a quick getaway if something went wrong. Observers noted that things were about to start 'happening' in the centre of the arena, where everyone's creatures would have to pass in order to get to each other.

Plot and counterplot. Oh, and some violence

Jonathan finally succeeded in creating something - a gooey blob. Chris, confident of having seen through the Ed's clumsy trick, disbelieved his centaur, but it turned out unfairly to be real. The universe was now noticeably Chaotic, and everyone looked knowingly at Jeff when he cast a (lawful) lion. Chris stayed put in his castle and Rich sent his forces after Jonathan's giant, as did Steph. Jonathan showed a dispiriting lack of confidence in his hijacked minion and began edging away from the conflict. Steve cast a king cobra and sent it towards the battle in the centre of the arena, shouting things like 'Prepare to taste the fangs of justice!' Nobody had the heart to tell him the cobra was an utterly crap monster. Meanwhile, Jeff's suspicious lion was charging after the Ed. But! Just as it reached him, Chris disbelieved it. Did this mean he'd run out of spells already? The Ed started puzzling out a complicated series of logical deductions as the others created a few more monsters and started hitting each other with them.

"We-hey!" said Chris, whipping off his sunglasses and bandana and sitting down at the hurriedly-polished Speccy table. 'think I'll just prod this key in an expensively pantomimic manner worthy of a silent film actor told to pull out all the stops.' But, unknown to him, the others had lined up in unconvincingly belligerent poses, with hillarious consequences.

Suddenly, Chris's castle disappeared, leaving him faced with the Ed's bow-wielding centaur, just as the Ed deduced he was defenceless. Tragically mistaken, he attacked, only to be repelled by a debilitating lightning bolt. Chris sauntered into the corner and said, 'Come on if you think you're hard enough.' Meanwhile, Rich's wraiths made short work of Steph's spectre and started on JD's giant. Steph retaliated with her other undead minions, but failed to kill it. Steve's cobra finally made it to the battle and attacked the giant. Jeff hid in the corner. A few more creatures sprang into existence, and the Ed, keeping Chris pinned down with a hail of arrows, failed to notice Jeff casting a gooey blob at him. In seconds the blob had spread, devouring him! Craig applauded enthusiastically.

JD's giant started laying about it with a big stick, and Steve's cobra was trodden on. 'That snake was a bit crap,' he complained, but before he could get over his grief, his bear was attacked by Steph's legions of undead. (Well, pair of undead.) His ghost rushed to the defence. Jeff's blob started to grow. Things were indeed 'happening'.

In the time before Monkey, chaos reigned, or something

Steve and Jeff traded magic bolt blasts.

Jonathan, making up for his early underachievement, cast another giant and foiled Chris's getaway plans by killing his unicom with a rampaging ogre. Chris retreated once more into the corner, uttering oaths, but not too loudly in case Jonathan heard and attacked him. Rich was now attacking anything that moved, regardless of strategic importance, confident that his undead creatures could win the day. The universe went Chaotic big-time. Jeff's blob spread in a frightening fashion, and Steph conjured a hydra. Suddenly people were walking pointedly in the other direction. Everyone, that is, but Steve (who was in the corner anyway). 'Toast in the fiery flames of righteousness!' he cried, and cast the dreaded magic fire spell, which failed. 'That magic fire was a bit crap,' he complained. Rich's minions slugged it out with JD's giants, while Steph's hydra rotated like a blubbery radar dish before settling on Rich. The others cheered up a bit (except for Steve) (and Chris, who was now surrounded by Jeff's gooey blob).

Throwing caution to the winds, Steve attacked Jeff, but failed to kill him. Jonathan created a zombie, Chris failed to subvert JD's ogre and Steph created a ghost. Every Law spell now had a casting probability of under 40%, and Steve was stuck with loads of Law he was heard to esy, with some justification. And 'Yim film wobbly carpentry,' But that wasn't justified at all.

spells. 'That Steve was a bit crap,' he complained in an hilariously confused fashion, before blasting Jeff off the board with a magic bolt, much to everyone's surprise (including his).

Chris was suddenly reprieved as Jeff's gooey blob vanished along with him, but before he could wipe his brow in an exaggerated fashion, JD's subversion-proof ogre killed him. 'Poetic justice, or something,' consoled the Ed. Steph threw everything she had at Rich.

The tension mounts

A round of disbelieving proved everything left in the arena was real. Rich's wraiths killed both JD's cobra and zombie, but Rich himself was in trouble. Besieged by Steph's undead creations, he called his wraiths to him and battled for his life - but Steph 'Justiced' him in an entirely gratuitous manner and his bodyguards vanished. Craig and the Ed and Jeff applauded enthusiastically. Stirred into action, Rich killed Steph's cobra, moved out of the corner, turned in mid-flight and blasted a ghost. Steph's remaining minions battered away at him, but! he emerged alive! (Phew.) Meanwhile, Steve's forces tripped merrily towards the centre of the screen. 'He who controls the centre, controls the arena!' he argued unconvincingly. As Rich fought against overwhelming odds, Jonathan cast a magic wood and hid inside a tree. Steve's forces reached Jonathan's and a small fight broke out. Then, just as Rich seemed down for the count, he took a chance and cast magic wings. And - blimey! - it succeeded, With a leap and a bound, he was free. Undaunted, Steph's creatures plodded after him. The Ed helpfully advised Rich to give up now, because in about three turns' time he'd be trapped between the trees of JD's magic wood and Steph's relentless hydra. At that moment, Jonathan received a new spell, and his protective tree disappeared. He was defenceless. Steve's band of marauders trotted off in his direction. Jonathan, in a moment of panic, cast another magic wood, reaping an entire extra tree. The Ed helpfully advised him to give up now, as in about three turns' time he'd be caught by Steve's creatures. At that moment, Steve changed his mind and headed for Steph. Rich

It's carnage here, Bob. Bodies are littering the arens, and behind me I can hear to terribly sucking noise as the goosy blob allthere over another victim. Actually, that's a rather loud terrible sucking noise. Alarmingly loud, in fact. (Looks.) Oh allthere over another victim. Actually, that's a rather loud terrible sucking noise. Alarmingly loud, in fact. (Looks.) Oh allthere over another victim. Actually, that's a rather loud terrible sucking noise. Alarmingly loud, in fact. (Looks.) Oh healt. Er, this is Jim Dixon, CTTNBNWKWNTN News, moving in the general direction of away.

attacked the rubber shark with Vengeance (similar to Justice) and the quick-getaway centaur she was using vanished. Rich taunted, 'I'm a rider at the gates of dawn, and I take no prisoners!' Andy put down the camera and started swapping quips from The Young Ones with him. But – oh no! – Steve's attack on Steph's position had been a feint! He was really moving to outflank Rich! (The excitement was unbearable.) JD hid in his tree as Rich attacked it furiously. Steph's remaining creatures closed on Rich, with Steve's bods moving in from the other direction. A classic pincer movement, or something.

Finalé

JD conjured a glant. 'Hat Obviously an illusion!' bellowed Rich, disbelieving it. But, horrifically, it wasn't. As the giant beat up Rich, JD's tree disappeared, leaving him with a crap new spell and no defences. Rich seized his chance and attacked, but the wily Jonathan dodged and his giant mercilessly finished off the plucky heartthrob. Craig, the Ed, Chris and Jeff applauded enthusiastically. Meanwhile, elsewhere, Steph and Steve turned on each other. But it was obvious the game was over – Steve's gooey blob had halved the screen, and the others stuck to their corners to avoid it, hoping the time limit would run out before it untidily swallowed them up. After a bit of argybargy between Steph's and Steve's minions, the final whistle blew. Lawks a lordy, the contest was a three-way tie.

Final result

Craig – wraithed
Ed – blobbed
Chris – clubbed
Jeff – zapped
Rich – squashed
Jonathan – ducked
Steph – dodged
Steve – robbed

Stuart - washed

Jonathan, Steve and Steph shared the prize (an impressive certificate in which Jonathan immediately found three spelling errors). Rich was voted Wiz Of The Match for his sterling performance under heavy fire, and Steph was praised for her fine use of tactical play. As the group decided to go to a pub and tell endless Chaos veteran anecdotes, the Ed sprang to his feet and suggested a rematch.

The rematch

Too late, they'd all gone to the pub.

HELLO?

Comic japery abounded during the Grand Chaos Play-Off. Well, just one joke was played, actually. (But several times.) It consisted of one player targetting another by waiting until the victim's turn came around, then calling him by internal phone. The victim's concentration was then shattered as he answered the call, only to hear a fiendish cackle from the other end of the line! How we laughed (especially as everybody ganged together and targetted the Ed.)

What a rogue that Steve is, eh, readers? But – oh no! – the Ed's retaliated by vowing never to bring back the Launderette. Lucky the mag's closing. Hurrah! (I think.)

Well, I suppose I should really say something profound in this space.

IRTERS

Hallo. This last edition of Letters is a bit spesh. After reading the announcement last month that YS was to close, you sent in letters of condolence/damp-eyed reminiscence/fightin' talk by the bucketload. The results of all this are (a) the Future bigwigs have gone into hiding for fear of repercussions from amazingly loyal YS fans, and (b) a spesh edition of Letters where you get to read what other yous think of us. Or something.

I've grouped the letters together in various categories and refrained from poking fun at them (quite as much).

Our first category is the frankly unbelievable 'YS Saved My Life. Sort Of.' Here, readers discover the amazing healing powers of YS after suffering some terrible disaster.

HA! HA! HA!

I have an amusing story that involves YS at some point. About a month ago, my sister got a huge box of chocs for her birthday. One day I got home from school and found that our dog had

SALVATION ARMY

While rooting through my old comics I found this. YS – the 'Young Soldier' – is the Salvation Army's yoof mag. Have they permission to use the name? William Goodwin Litherland, Liverpool

No, they've not.
Confidentially, we'd sue, but they'd probably call down the wrath of God and destroy us all with the fiery breath of divine vengeance, so this had best remain our secret, eh? Ed.

scoffed the lot. Ha! Ha! Then I read YS.

C Jones Silver End, Withal

That's quite believable, actually. Sorry. Ed.

ON MY BUTT

In February of 1991, I was on a skiing holiday with my old school. The entire thing was crap and we were swindled by our travel agents and refused admission into our plush hotel. We ended up in an incredibly crap wooden hotel that had a pervy garage owner next to it. The food was awful, the skiing a nightmare and I had – putting it in the nicest possible way – a blimmin' miserable time. In the end I feigned back pains and stayed in the resort while all the other mugs went slogging their way up a huge mountain.

And what was it that saved my mental state and made the last day of the holiday the most enjoyable? It was, of course, Your Sinclair. Yessir, I spent the entire day sat on my butt, eating heaps of chocs and reading ish 63 of the greatest mag in the world.

Ian Armer Preston, Lancs

> That's getting a bit stranger, but still falls well within the bounds of credibility. Excuse me for doubting you. Ed.

BIT OF STRING

I was on a hiking holiday back in 1989, and, naturally, I took a supply of YS back issues to keep me amused during the nights. Now it was really hot, and I had to wear a hat to keep the sun off. But! One day my hat blew away. Luckily - hurrah! it was YS to the rescue, saving me from sunstroke and sunburn and some other ailments connected with le soleil, because I unfolded ish 57 and, using a bit of string, tied it over my head. And it worked! I was able to carry on until I could get another hat. Amazing, eh?

Paula Grigson Dudley

I'd been inclined to doubt your word, but elements of the story ring true. I beg your pardon. Ed.

WORLD WAR ONE

You asked for stories connected with YS. Well, my granddad fought in World War 1, and if it hadn't been for a rolled-up copy of YS in his breast pocket, that sniper's bullet would have killed him. Funnily enough, he met the sniper after the war, and they became great friends due to their mutual admiration of Your Sinclair.

Freddie Wells Canterbury, Kent

Stop lying. Ed.

And now! Our second category, the 'What Happened When I Found Out YS Was Closing.'

ANGUS'S DAD

I was dragged out of John Menzies screaming 'Zucchini', uncontrollably, After a course of therapy, I've now calmed down enough to make these points. Firstly, your Oh, Sweet Mystery Of Life corner. Is Mike McRoberts' 3D Life game 3D Spore Eating Sim by Codies, a game that was never released but somehow found its way into Mike's hands? Or could it be the legendary 3D Spore Eating Game by Imaginarysoft?

Justin Williamson Kirkintilloch, Glasgow

We'd sort of come to the conclusion that either Mike McRoberts was indeed thinking of Spore by Bulldog, and had mistakenly thought the game to be 3D, or else he was joking. Tch, eh? Ed.

SHOCK NEWS

When I told my two boys Danny and Dean and my wife Janis the shock news, she said, 'You're not crying, are you?' No, I was weeping.

Terry Adams Hillingdon, Middlesex

Sob. Ed.

WATCHING AN OLD FRIEND DIE

YS is closing. I feel as though I am watching an old friend die. I shall miss you all very much.

Paul Warr Bolton, Lancs

Blub. Ed.

And now, folks, a quick 'YS - So Much Better Than Several Other Magazines I Could Name' letter. (For purely medicinal purposes, you understand.)

HE SEETHED

When I showed a copy of YS to a Gameboy and C64-owning friend, he seethed with jealousy at the whimsical humour and lack of hip pretensions, ie at no point does anyone say 'doh!', 'get a life' or 'sad'.

Mark Sturdy Wetherby, W Yorks

Hurrahl Ed.

And the final category. The eminently blubworthy, 'I First Discovered YS In...' Memories, eh? Good job we've got 'em or we'd all be forgetting how to put our trousers on in the morning.

Probably the most famous YS cover of all time. In fact, it was such an important event in the meg's history (getting on TV and everything) we won't even point out the slightly odd eyes. (Your secret's safe with us, Wayne.)

I have been an avid YS-er for the past seven years and it is with dewy eyes that I type this missive. I'll miss YS and all the different characters associated with it. You've done us proud to last as long as you did. Actually, I've a confession to make. I'm a ghost member of the YS team! (Sort of.) I've had loads of maps 'n' things printed in Tipshop, but! my greatest claim to fame is that I designed the first (and last) reader's cover for YS way back in the mists of time (ie September 1989). I was the lucky person who won the YS/Ghost Train compo and had my piccy of Indy Jones staring out of the nation's mag shelves. And I've been friends with your review bod Philip Kiernan since I was nine years old! See, I'm practically married to YS! Almost.

Wayne Horan Ballinderry, Co Westmeath

Ah, YS on national TV... playing opposite a rubber sheep. Erk. Ed.

BHA!

PRINT

It was the innuendo and rude bits that drew me to YS.

Kevin Dawson Perth, Dundee

And now you've matured, I trust you can recognise the clever irony at the heart of every one. Ed.

Words like 'wibble' and 'hatstand' are now part of my everyday language. Wibble. There, see? Hatstand. And again! Dear oh dear. Zucchini! (I'm incorrigible.)

Gareth Trenchard Barry, South Glamorgan

I wish I'd never come up with the zucchini thing. People keep ringing up and saying, 'Zucchini', and I can never remember how I'm supposed to answer. ('No thanks, I'm trying to give them up', fact fans.) Ed.

Alas, it is no longer fashionable to own a Speccy, and as Alan Miles once said, 'Computers are part of the fashion industry.'

John Teore

Ramsey, Isle Of Man
Eventually, there will be a revival in computers, as has happened with music. Really trendy people will think the Speccy is the 'in' thing, and old rubber-keyed jobs will sell for hundreds of pounds. So store

Now that YS has gone, I will put all my issues and games in a box along with my +3 and put them all in the attic. Maybe in the future I will find the box and let the memories come flooding back.

Anthony Austin Maidstone, Kent

them well, folks! Ed.

But say you're 96, and you find the box, and the Speccy still works! You'd spend the rest of the day playing all your games. But – oh no! – you'll have forgotten about the bugs in Jet Set Willy and you'll die of a stress-related disease attempting to climb The Banyan Tree. Far better to bring the box back and play 'em now, eh? Ed.

For the final pair of doodly Doodlebugs, here's an elegaic pic of YS Crusader by Ian Hewett, and Alan Miller's Rebelstar – the funniest thing since the notorious Midnight Resistance. Ha ha ha! (Etc.)

REBELSTAR

BOUNCY THING

I've read YS since the beginning of 1987, when I got my first Speccy. Many a time have I sat square-eyed in front of my 14-inch TV playing the YS covertape games, from issue one's Rasputin demo to ish 92's Playdays demo. I've still got all the free gifts, from the Push Off Indy Jones door hanger to the YS tape head cleaner. Even the Jack The Nipper 2 bouncy thing, which is immensely useful for, er, bouncing.

We'll miss all the famous YS characters like Ernie The Psychotic Madman, Farty The Warthog, Bert The Stick Insect and Whistlin' Rick Wilson. Who could forget the time when Phillip 'No, I'm not the one with the gopher, I'm a serious actor' Schofield played 'Hold My Hand Very Tightly (Very Tightly)' on Radio One? (Cue blubby Hovis flashback music.)

When Wally Week and Sabreman ruled cyberspace, and Virtual Reality was something that happened after two pints of cider, that was when YS really started. (Eeee.) Ah, memories: the controversy over the Vixen cover. The big move from Rathbone Castle to the YS Shed. The trips to various theme parks and seaside places under the pretence of reviewing arcade games. Then, more recently, Matt Bielby's dramatic retirement due to raging insanity. Gosh, I'm waffling on a bit, aren't I? Oh well, never mind. YS is, has been and always will be the most un-crap magazine ever, in a funky skillo sort of way of course, and don't let anyone tell you otherwise. By the way, where are my Star Letter games, you basts? Steve Lake

NICE 'N' SPICY NIK-NAKS

Henley

A Microsoft Mail centre in

It's amazing how time flies, isn't it? My first ish of YS was the April 1991 one, and no way does that seem like two-and-a-third years ago. That was quite a memorable ish. It was Linda's first Tipshop, the first Mag 7 covertape. In the little black box at the bottom of the contents page, Andy 'Hippy' Ide was the big Ed., Linda was staff writer, James 'Stud' Leach was Games Ed. and Sal 'Very nearly popped' Meddings was Art Ed. Little Andy O was still Design Assistant and you were still Jon Pillar, Rich Pelley died from a fatal overdose of Nice 'n' Spicy Nik-Naks in the last ever Crap Games Corner and there was something called How 2 Hack which I didn't even attempt to understand. Also, Jonathan Davies wrote a poem about apple pie and went on a photo story date with two women who obviously hated him. It was also the ish where James wrote the worst review of his life - he Megagamed Toyota Celica GT Rally, and it was

DON'T ARGUE
I'd like to point out that in ish 92's reprint of the YS
Top 100 Games Of All
Time, you missed out number 25. My suspicions were first aroused when I noticed you had 101 games, but an obviously even number of entries.
Number 25 should, of course, have been Manic
Miner. And don't argue or try to get out of it, because I wrote the original article.
Stuart Campbell
Amiga Power, Bath

Oh blimey. Why didn't you blimmin' readers spot this?

Oh blimey. Why didn't you blimmin' readers spot this? Anybody but Stuart! Oh, the embarrassment. Er, okay, you've got me. Have a trainspotter award. Well done. (Hope you choke on it.) Ed.

At last! Revealed in all its glory! The Trainspotter! Yes, that elusive certificate, so long unawarded, has finally been claimed, by Stuart Campbell, no less! (Damn his eyes.)

A big picture of ish 64's cover in order to fill up space! (Nope, I just can't see the attraction of this truth in captions idea.)

crap. I wasted £11 on it!

There were the results of the Readers' Top Five Games Of 1990, too. Rainbow Islands won, with Sim City in second place. Delta Chargel was the duffer of the year. All in all, it was a bit of a stonker of an ish.

Thomas Adams Erith, Kent

Toyota Celica GT Rally, eh? Ah well, you see, your problem was impulse buying. You should have curbed your impatience and waited for the definitive YS review, and... er, um, damnation. Ed.

I'M FROM CARDIFF

Your 'Your Sinclair - It's Crap! (In A Funky Skillo Sort Of Way)' Sinclair has been a huge (no, a heeeeyooge) influence and part of my life. I can remember (cue nostalgic American sitcom father-figure laugh) buying my first copy of Your Spectrum nigh on nine years ago (when I were a lad). Eee, and right good it were, too. (Don't know why I'm putting this Hovis voice on for; YS isn't that old, and I never rowed across t'lake to get a copy. Plus, I'm from Cardiff.) But anyway. No doubt you'll get loads of letters wibbling on about the Eds, but what about the unsung heroes of YS? How about Nick Davies, eh? That artist guy who started with Your Spectrum, drew most of the Joystick Jugglers, the Trainspotter and the other pictures on the Letters bit, numerous compo pictures and lots of covers. Good of Andy O (Ol? Andy), much insulted with crap bike jokes (or should that be 'crap bike' jokes?). Andy - keep the bike, man. And JD, and Rich 'Mr Flares' Pelley, and all those other bods. Sigh.

Well, this is it. With a lump in my throat, and a thoughtful tear of mourning in my eye, I don my black armband and sign off. I'd like to say a big 'zucchini' to you all.

lan Hewett Penllergaer, Swansea And there you go. A selection from the enormous number of supportive lets that came crashing through the Shed door these past couple of weeks. Sniffy thanks to everyone who jotted down their mems of YS. We love you all. Oh, this is getting all uncharacteristically sweet and pleasant. (Curses.) Quick! Cue a final, gratuitous 'Speccies Are The Best Computers In The Whole Wide Universe' letter! (Phew.)

STREET FIGHTER 2

I first bought YS when I was 11. The suspect jokes about joysticks and so on were ideal for my primitive, undeveloped little mind. Anyway, for my first (and last – sigh) useful contribution to YS, I would like to reveal a couple of POKEs that give the Speccy the edge over every other machine at the moment. Yes, it's the Street Fighter 2: Champion Edition Multiface POKEs Spesh!

In order for both players to play as the same character (including the bosses), just clip on your Multiface and enter POKE 37792, 0: POKE 38254, 15. Wowee, eh? The only prob is, you have to load the same character twice, using that Multiload From Hell, But! As a bonus, here's an infy energy POKE as well! POKE 41314, 255. Hurrah!

FROM OUTER SPACE!

BATMAN RETURNS AGAIN

The next big screen version of Batman will be slightly different. Sort of flatter, and more, well, cartoony. Why? Because it'll be a movie version of the excellent animated series. Kevin Conroy will be voicing Batman with Mark 'Wasn't I in something really big once?' Hamill doing the throat chores for The Joker.

Two-Face threw the car into a tyre-stripping turn that all but huried Batman from the roof. Clinging on with every ounce of strength, the Caped Crusader managed to advise, "Mirror, signal manoeuvra."

GREEN LIGHT

Another superhero headed for the big screen is The Green Hornet, currently in production from Universal. Steven Spielberg's Amblin Pictures, meanwhile, are considering a script for Plastic Man (a tad more morphing effects on the horizon methinks).

HOPELESS LOST

No, that shouldn't be hopelessly lost, I'm talking about Lost inSpace, which is, you have to admit, hopeless. And guess what? It's being made into a film. What have we done to deserve this?

'And I thought vegetables were good for you!' quips Dr Zachary Smith as he is crushed to death by a rampeging alien being. Luckily the robot intervenes in a later scene.

MORE US BILGE

Babylon Five, which, though it's set on a space station with a numbered suffix, was not inspired by Deep Space Nine at all, has just been commissioned for a full series by Warner Brothers in the US. The shows producers promise space battles the like of which have not been seen since Return Of the Jedi.

EVIL HARDBLOKE

Sam 'The Evil Dead' Raimi is directing a TV movie called Hercules, and two direct-to-vid sequels to Darkman. (Hey! Let me tell you about Sam Raimi. Ed) (Snip! Everybody)

WELL, THAT WAS FUN

LIKE A PHOENIX...

Look I know it's the last YS, and I should be upset and doing something corny like quoting the last lines from my favourite films but, well, I've actually got some good news. DOCTOR WHO IS COMING BACK! Yep, it's true. In November the Doc will be back on the Beeb, apparently in a one-off 90 minute special. If that goes well it could come back for good.

Rumours suggest that the Beeb are trying to get all the surviving Doctors to appear, in other words Jon Pertwee, Tom Baker, Peter Davison, the fat one (Colin Baker was really good, actually. Ed) and Sylvester McCoy. Though going on past form, it's doubtful that Tom will agree (but you never know your luck).

The significance of November is that it's Doctor Who's 30th anniversary (on the 23rd to be exact). So let's hope the Beeb go ahead and do it in style (though I wouldn't hold out much hope).

It's true! The Doctor will indeed be back on the Beet Provided nothing unforeseen happens, of course. Like, for example, a second coin being tossed but coming up tails. That sort of thing.

SPECKELL ENLIGH

Part Two

In which Simon N Goodwin continues his roundup of the computers capable of running Spectrum programs. Apart from the Speccy, obviously.

Emulators – the quick resume. They're utilities (hardware, software or a mixture of both) that allow you to run programs on computers other than the one for which they were originally written. And although the computers running Speccy emulators may be more powerful than a Speccy itself, it doesn't necessarily follow they'll be faster. After all, it takes a lot of work for a 16-bit machine with a different processor and screen layout to think down to the Speccy's level! Amstrad (who own all rights to the Speccy) have recently indicated that they don't mind the use of the Speccy ROM in PD or shareware emulators, which has removed a major stumbling block for programmers.

In part one of the YS guide I looked at Speccy emulators for the PC, ST and Amiga. This month, it's the turn of the Amstrad CPC, Archimedes, SAM Coupé, Sinclair QL (and the QDOS operating system), Memotech, Einstein and TS-2068. And you thought Speccy games were just for Speccies!

QL/QDOS

Sinclair's last great fling was QDOS, the multitasking operating system used in the QL and Thor ranges, and now on ST and Amiga. Version 3.20 of the PD Amiga QDOS emulator is the best yet, and can run many emulators itself. (Work that one out!)

QDOS users have fond memories of the Spectrum so ZX emulators abound, with seven so far in circulation. Spectator is the slowest but most compatible. The registered version supports lots of disk formats (but not tape loading) and can use the QL's second processor as a substitute 48K beeper. Italy's Ergon team are the most prolific of emulator programmers - they've released four major emulators in little more than two years and are presently working on a 128K emulator. Their 48K suite - ZM/1, ZM/2, ZM/3 and ZM/HT - read tapes through the Sinclair NET port, similar to that on Interface 1, and simulate the BEEP in the same way. Registered copies of Ergon's programs can also communicate by RS232, ZX NET, MGT and Opus disks. ZM/3 multitasks and uses threaded code to save looking up Z80 emulation routines, making it faster but a little less compatible than ZM/2 and the slow-screened ZM/1. ZM/2 supports interface 1 and Microdrive emulation, and boasts a machine-code monitor in the registered version.

ZM/HT is the most sophisticated emulator. It compiles Z80 (Speccy code) to 68000 (QDOS code) as it goes along, taking self-modifying code in its stride! Even an 8-bit QL can run ZX got around this problem by rewriting the ZX BASIC interpreter. I hear that their emulator runs pure BASIC programs well, but can't handle code.

Amstrad CPC

The emulator redirects Speccy characters and graphics to the 16K Amstrad screen, using four solid colours and stipple patterns for the rest. Programs that write directly to the ZX screen, as most machine code games do, have to wait for an emulator routine to copy the changes across several times a second. This slows things down and can cause extra flicker.

The main obstacle for the emulator is the size of the CPC memory – 64K. In fact, the emulator has only 24K of space – the rest of the CPC's software at reasonable speed once it is compiled, and you can save the compiled version at any time. In the few seconds while you enter a short BASIC program, ZM/HT scans about a third of the ZX ROM and compiles it into 40K of 68000 machine code! This program is awesome, but a tight fit on a 640K QL. With a first-class setup (640K QL with 2 megabyte Gold Card and twin 3.2 meg floppy drives) ZM/HT runs rings around a real Speccy – but there's a price to pay. About £400, to be exact.

As mentioned last month, William James' Speculator runs under QDOS as well as on the Amiga A1200. To handle different disk formats, it includes converters for MGT files and PC and Amiga snaps. You also get QSpec 2, a kit of QDOS commands to print, and load, save and convert cassettes (including headerless files and hyperloads). Speculator is the only PD emulator supplied with a complete source listing (the original annotated program code): over 12,000 lines of 68000 assembler and a soupçon of SuperBASIC, so you can follow the program, marvel at how outrageously clever the programmer is, and understand just how he did it. Or at least make a pretence of doing so. Or, as they say, something.

Internal - the machine - the memory is taken up with the ROM and screen. The emulator is fun for BASIC programmers, but not much use to gamesters.

Archimeda

A letter from Amt Gulbrandsen of PC emulator fame (see last issue) confirms there is indeed an Archie emulator at large. Arxe Systems planned to release one ages ago, written by David Lawrence, but Amstrad said no. Apparently they've now changed their minds. Unfortunately, the only contact address Arnt gives for the emulator is an Internet site. (Some sort of plug for Dial Hard would seem to be in order here!) If you can connect to Internet, you'll find the information via anonymous ftp or fsp on site ftp.nvg.unit.no.

Memotech and Einstein

The first Speccy emulators were a mixture of hardware and software for mid-1980s British Z80 micros like the Memotech MTX and Telford's own Tatung Einstein. (Blank looks of surprise from the Nintendo generation!)

These emulators were designed by Tony Brewer, and used ingenious plug-in cartridges for sound and tape emulation. The snag was that Sinclair would not permit the ZX ROM to be used, so each new game required a special emulator file to update the screen and stand in for those routines.

Tony Brewer went on to homebrew a PC emulator card with onboard Z80A and Spectrum video circuits, but Amstrad failed to respond to his fax about ROM rights, and it never reached production. A sad loss.

Timex made hundreds of thousands of TS-2068s, most of which ended up in Poland and the USA. These licensed Speccy developments have a 24K ROM containing most of the 16K Speccy code and more besides, but the routines have all been moved. So Speccy games that call the ROM only run if the calls are changed. Later programs ignore the ROM altogether and use custom routines, but early classics like 3D Ant Attack, Fighter Pilot, Tasword 2 and Vu-Calc had to be specially converted. These were straight conversions, and did not use added TS-2068 features like the sound chip and 512 pixel wide extra-high-res mode.

Many 2068 owners fit
16K Spectrum ROMs, at $20 apiece, to run ZX
software without changes.
Other options are a $60 plug-in cartridge that overrides the Timex ROM, or a dual-chip ROM switcher at $55. These prices come from an old Zebra Systems
catalogue and may be out of date, but groups in America continue to support the 2068, and they'll be able to help.

SAM Coupé

From the very beginning, the Coupé was designed to emulate the Speccy. In fact, SAM will run 48K Speccy games perfectly if you replace its ROM with a Speccy chip, but, as an alternative, there are a great many software emulators available. The bundled emulator, written when Amstrad were still keeping a tight rein on the ROM rights, uses elaborate routines to simulate the Speccy ROM without actually using any of its code. A utility is included to convert Speccy BASIC programs to SAM BASIC, which is twice to three times as fast as the original.

Most games will run under this emulator, but the problem is actually loading them – a chore, even with the bundled emulator's patch routines for various speedloaders, for the faster SAM processor upsets such protection that bypasses the compensating ROM code. Succeeding emulators have put this original program in the shade by using a copy of the original 48K ROM, supplied by the user to avoid any copyright problems.

avoid any copyright problems.

Tape loading difficulties (the most common problem with all Coupé emulators) can be eliminated entirely with The Messenger. A hardware port utility, it sits between the Coupé and your Speccy. When the traditional little red button is pressed, the program running on the Speccy is frozen and squirted over to the Coupé through hardware, bypassing the tape system altogether.

system altogether.
Away from official MGT/SAMCo releases are the third-party emulators. SD Software's Specmaker adds a 360K RAM disk on a 512K machine. You can use this from SAM BASIC as well as ZX BASIC, swapping back and forth at will. SAM's extra keys appear to programs that call the modified ROM, and Specmaker can divert the Spectrum's LPRINT and LLIST

Lerm's SAMtape 4M runs from SAM BASIC, but you can't break in to PEEK, POKE, or alter the colour palette. Instead there are menus to set the colours used by the Spectrum, enter Multiface POKEs and manipulate files. On the Spectrum side SAM's extra keys are implemented, and you can LLIST or LPRINT to your heart's content. Cassette loading is improved by SAMtape 4M, but is still not perfect. The Lerm program can load 48K MGT snaps, Messenger files, or its own LRM format. The advantage is that snaps can be compressed to save disk space - the snag is that you can't convert them back to MGT format for other emulators. It also has protection against the dreaded Magic Button trouble (a hardware glitch means the Coupé break button sends a stream of interrupts instead of just the one) - you tap SYMBOL to restart the Spectrum or SAM after pressing it.

Kobrahsoft claim that CD2 can 'transfer the majority of Spectrum tapes to SAM disk', but, as far as I can see, it's a pretty standard ZX ROM with snapshot and tape loading patches. SC_Specione, from Steve Nutting, has its own CODE format for snapshots and a conveder for MGT snaps, You'can transfer data from the Speccy to the Coupé and back again with PEEKs and POKEs. It supports SAM keys and LPRINT, but not LLIST, from ZX BASIC. Other simple ZX emulators for the Coupé have been published by fanzines like SAM Supplement. Format and Outlet. The above are the only Coupé emulators I have, but there are many others – the majority PD or shareware, so you can try before you buy.

As an aside, to date no one has succeeded in automatically emulating a 128K Speccy, due to the very different ways that machine and the Coupe handle memory paging. (The Speccy moves blocks of 16K, the Coupe, 32K.) There is an anonymous source who has been converting 128K Speccy games to run on SAM by manually rewnting the relevant parts of the code, but this is highly illegal, so beware.

The Hobbit

Hobbits come from Leningrad. No, really. They're 64K Spectrum compatibles made with Russian static chips, plus copies of the ZX ROM and the old Beta disk interface. They're a bit faster than a real Spectrum (no video contention) and have some extra features, but run 48K ZX software. They're really a clone, not an emulator. Thousands have been made, but makers Intercompex have had little joy exporting them.

PREVIEW EXODUS

It's not a joke. Lemmings is coming to the Coupé. Really. After long, complicated and immensely pessimistic negotations, Psygnosis have finally given the go-ahead for the cute and suicidal lems to trek stupidly over to the SAM where you can blow them up to your heart's content. Or possibly even help them to get home. Whatever slates your roof.

Who did what, when and to whom

Chris White (now come on, admit it, you were expecting him to pop up somewhere) started work on Lemmings even before Prince Of Persia was finished. Utilising the same method of programming (le writing the blimmin' game then approaching the publisher to see if it was all right to write the game) he beavered away while everyone ooh-ed and aah-ed over Prince and diplomatically failing to spot the umpteen million bugs in it, a-ha ha ha. Taking his workin-progress demos to various computer fairs and surreptitiously loading them up on the display Coupés, he managed to turn Lemmings into the best-kept worst-kept secret in SAMdom. Sample conversation between two Coupé owners: 'Hey! Have you seen the new game groovy of Chris White is working on?'

'What, Lemmings?

Not everything's in place yet (the clock's more a sort of co-ordinate tracker thang for the programmer) and it's still very slow with lots o' lems on-screen, but wow! eh?

'No.' (Conspiratorial wink.)

Work proceeded apace (or very slowly) but the demise of SAMCo and then SAMTech left things looking very bleak for the lems. (Apart from the whole idea of them falling off cliffs or being drowned or blown up, obviously.) But then! FRED Publishing, of, er, FRED fame, stepped in and began the long, slow (or apace) process of gently approaching Psygnosis and seeking permission for something that had already been done. And, a mere clump of months later, they've succeeded. Psygnosis have said a big, hearty 'yes!', Chris has been stuck with pointy objects in an effort to get him to work fast enough to meet the September release date, and Coupé owners needn't engage in convoluted handshakes before revealing they

The game

Oh, come on. You can't possibly not know about Lemmings. It's this really cute puzzle game which (No! It's not a puzzle game! Don't ever call it a puzzle game! Aaarghh! FRED Publishing and Chris White) Er. Well, it's a cute puh... um, save-'em-up where you have to solve... er, negotiate a series of obstacle courses of an uzzle-pay nature. From the playable demo we've been having a look at, the game looks pretty much set to be a complete stunner. There's still work to be done, chiefly in the area of speed – when the

PREVIEW

Chris White, thanks to a revolutionary surgical technique known as 'thwogging', can go for 21 days without sleep, functioning at no less than 94% efficiency at any given time. Lucky, really, because as well as Lemmings, he's working on the game described (er, by him) as 'Super Sprint with guns', Pitlane. Apparently it's pretty much in the bag, but the only demo Chris could find at short notice was one dating from about 6000000000BC which has none of the computer-controlled car movement or weapons or anything (the clot).

More track, the same car, lots of grass and, alas, no weapons of mass destruction. Lawks, eh?

The game

Well, it's Super Sprint with guns, innit? (Or Supercars even. A Reader) No. no. no. no. actually, it isn't, actually, no. Well, yes it is. It's Supercars. All right? Happy now? (Yes. A Reader) You drive around a four screens wide by two screens deep track, ostensibly racing against the other cars but in reality hanging back so you can blast away their tyres with a well-placed missile and watch their state-ofthe-art mean machine transform into a large chunk of metal hurtling towards the edge of the track in a generally out-of-control manner. Ha ha. There are the usual Super Sprint/Super Cars-y hazards - whirlwinds, oil slicks and the like - and you can upgrade your car to an even more antisocial specification. Thanks to Chris sending the really crap demo we can't tell you how it plays, but if things go according to plan, the game will be fab, and Rocky will have a clear eight minutes to pile as much cash as he can into the false bottom of the suitcase before the guard tumbles to Kelly Marie's diversion. And all thanks to the miracle of thwogging. In fact, here's a badge for you to cut out, stick to a bit of cardboard and display proudly on the lapel of your jacket.

PREVIEW SANDMAN SHADOW

Hold on! Before you start back-flipping across the room, the screenshot is a mock-ups. Y'see, the artist got in touch with Entropy (for it is they) with disks and disks (and disks) full of smart graphics. Suitably inspired, the Entropy programmers are sitting down and actually writing a Monkey Island-ish game to go round the pics. It's all at an incredibly early stage (and, let's face it, Entropy aren't exactly known for adhering to any schedules – we've been waiting for Statues Of Ice since 1932) but looks frighteningly exciting. The programmers keep telling us the game is ideal SAM fodder, but for the moment, it's waiting trousers on time.

Manic Mansion in progress. You can control the little Miner Somebodydefinitelynotcalled Willy, but not much else. Still, SAM Manic Miner was fab, so here's hoping.

in the final game. Wowee, eh? If you fancy a crack at penning a level, chuck a sae at Phoenix Software, c/o David Ledbury, 19 Lyme Avenue, Macclesfield, Cheshire SK11 7RJ and details of the Make Your Own Manic Mansion compo will return in a flash. Probably.

Entropy keep saying the actual program will be a doddle to write, but then again they said Statues would be finished in four months. Programmers; we love 'em.

PREVIEW MANIC MANI

Not Jet Set Willy at all, oh no. It may look vaguely JSW-y; some of the screens may have the same names and obstacle layouts as particular rooms from JSW; and it may be from the programmer of SAM Manic Miner, but it isn't Jet Set Willy. (Actually, readers, it's a case of the old tried-for-the-licence-but-lost-it-so-slightly-changed-the-game ploy, but keep it under your hat.) Again, it's still in the early stages, but there's a twist. As with Manic Miner, the programmer wants you to design levels, with the best rooms actually appearing

EXODUS WE LIKE IT. SO THERE

You may be wondering about the billions of mentions Exodus has got in this ish. Well, it's a tragic story. The programmer of this rather fab Smash TV with bunnies game approached A Certain SAM Publisher to release the game, but changed his mind before signing anything and is selling the game himself. So the Certain SAM Publisher decided that if he wasn't selling the game, nobody else would know about it, and is currently engaged in what amounts to a smear campaign against the game. Now we at YS think this is scoundrelly behaviour, so we're behind Exodus all the way. Yeah! Power to the programmer! Let's all join hands and sing.

Isn't that galling? Just as a quintet of non-puzzley games (except for Lemmings, of course) appears, YS closes. Tch. Still, chin up, eh? Perhaps you could adopt a secret SAM identity to battle crime in the metropolis. You could have a costume in the SAM livery, and jump around and shout things like, 'Coupé, away!' Or perhaps not. But anyway. Goodbye, all.

PUBLIG HOUSE

Oh blimey. I really can't think of an intro. Quick, Andy, the phone! (Furious dialling.) Hello, Intro Man? We need your help. Yes. That's right. Basically, we need an intro for a public domain column. Mmm. I see. Good idea. Thanks very much. We'll be expecting your invoice. (Hangs up.) Weil, Andy, intro Man recommends a nice, straightforward 'Here's Jonathan with the last three demo reviews,' as it's clear, concise and to the point. I'll act on his advice at once. (Clears throat.) Oh, damn and blast, out of room.

To finish off Public House, I've three not-bad-atall demos – one from a new group, one from an established programmer, and one from a musician who likes to really annoy people by also being a good coder but telling everybody he's really crap. Sorry, that wasn't terribly funny, was it? I'll stay late and rewrite it.

Sir Clive's Nightmare

by The Killer Klowns

We here at YS love imaginative demos. As a rule of thumb, as soon as the scrolly message starts, we move on to something else. So we were transfixed by Sir Clive's Nightmare in a rabbit-staring-down-a-lorry manner, except, of course, that was a lie. But anyway. Sir Clive is the story of an interstellar invasion by

It's nice to know that, as well as being the biggest-selling home computer eve in the history of the universe, the Speccy is also built to cope with the stress of interstellar travel.

zombies (we think) which is foiled by the timely intervention of Super 128K Man (we think). The demo starts with a big pic of a Killer Klown (so Andy instantly awarded it 98%) before moving on to a frontier Western town where – oh no! – zombies start crawling out of the ground. The action then cuts to a planet not far away, where a bendy 128K blasts off and zooms across the galaxy to save the day. In between the demo stops to get in an ad for the programmers' next demo (the scamps) and there's a lot of epic-y but not quite English blurb to keep the story bubbling along.

So much for the plot. The execution is similarly slick. (Look, that was a slick plot, we're telling you.) Apart from a pair of ripped tunes (tut tut) there's no sound, but the marvy graphics really give the demo that all-important comph.

'Oomph,' it goes. In an all-important fashion.

Scoriasonic Preview by Jackson Hollis

If you haven't twigged by now, on last month's covertape, just after Pokerama, was the Game Over Remix, a demo of the three-channel sampled music program Sample Tracer (not Tracker as Jonathan – ahem – corrected it). Scoriasonic

Of course, you can't hear the sampled music that accompanies this pic. It sort of goes 'Boop krrshh boop boop krrssh weeb krrssh burp.' More or less.

Preview contains a similar demo which squeezes more out of the 128K sound chip than would have been thought possible a year ago. It's even got a bit of a sense of humour (in a crap sort of way) as one of the instruments is a sampled burp.

There are actually three parts to the preview – a title screen that uses interlaced graphics to produce a 256x384 pixel image, an 'unlimited vumeters' screen which, well, has lots of bars bouncing around in time to the music, and the sample bit itself – but to be honest we couldn't really see the difference between the interlaced pic and a normal one, and the vu-meters bit were just vu-meters (Nol Andy) (But yes! A Reader) The best bit is that you have to press different keys at different points to find the different parts, so there's lots of proddy fun to be had in order to get a look at everything.

Agent-X's Hypersonic 2 proved that previews don't necessarily have to bear any relation whatsoever to the final release, but judging by the slickness of this peekat-a-prog, Scoriasonic (the full version) should be spanky.

'There are more stars in MGM than there are in heaven!' the studio used to boast. But this didn't take into account the galaxy being several hundred million light years wide. It was an honest mistake.

Branch Of Mind

by Axco (Agent-X and Cyrehl Owl)

Branch Of Mind is a sort of goodbye to Pentagram (the chaps responsible for the LSD megademo) written by ace musician and irritatingly good programmer (well, he keeps saying things like 'I'm crap' just to annoy people) Agent-X. It's a megademo, a sort of melting pot of ideas, with no theme or story but loads of really groovy effects. Starting off with a pic of the Pentagram logo exploding (sniff), it drifts into a massive diagonal attribute scrolly which gets bored with itself and zips off to make way for a very fast, very smooth, very large Branch logo sliding across the screen. Tasty.

Next up the screen pans across a gigantic vector graphic (wa-hey!) and a lightbulb moves around a globe, casting really crap shadows (erk), followed closely by 128 tiny scrollies (hurrah) and a raytraced graphic which goes to prove that raytracing really doesn't work in monochrome (yikes). Thus ends the first part of the megademo. 'But,' says the screen, 'don't walk away yet.'

The second act opens with a splendid pretend-hard drive interface with a moving arrow selecting various sub-directories to reach the demo itself. Things start moving with a ring of individually-animated stars which turn and twist and twiddle (Twiddle? Andy) all over the place in an impressive manner while funny things happen to the background. Then some squares bounce around a bit, and more stars appear, and the background goes wibbly again, and then the screen says, 'Now for something to blow your socks off,' but it doesn't, because the next bit's another raytracing, and then the demo ends. Well, actually, that's not quite true. The credit bit is ace - while they're scrolling, if you tap a key, footprints start traipsing across the screen. What a fab ending. Almost makes up for the couple of crap bits in the demo itself, really.

(But not enough, he said ruthlessly.)

Send a sae to Prism PD, 13 Rodney Close, Bilton, Rugby CV22 7HJ for a list of what's available. My mother had a Flit gun, it was devoid of charm. A bit of Flit shot out of it, the rest shot up her arm. Sorry, came over a bit Pam Ayres there.

f you want to know more about programming, take a Pitstop right here in our new program section! Each month it'll be bursting with routines from top programmers, and seething with all your games and utility programs. Or so said Phil South when he unveiled the very first Pitstop in YS just over six years ago. ook at a 486 running Windows. Look at an A4000 running Workbench. Look at a 520ST running Gem (if you can stand that nasty green colour). What have they all got in common? That's right - that little pointy arrow (as arrows tend to be). And now, just like these dream machines, you too can have the luxury of just such a pointy arrow, on none other than your own humble Speccy! As you can imagine, this is immensely useful for all sorts of things, like, for instance, drawing pictures, selecting on-screen menus/icons and stuff like that.

I've shamelessly lifted this program from the days of dear old JD, so whereas before it was printed in nasty hex (all together - bleaargh!), I've now repackaged it in all its glory along with our old chum the Decimal Loader, to aid you with your typing (aren't I kind?). To make the arrow appear on your screen, fully functional and using interrupt mode 2 (so you can run your program as the arrow is moving), just CLEAR 64999, reload the generated code, and RANDOMIZE USR 65000. The arrow can be manoeuvred at will using Q, A, O and P - there's an acceleration feature which means that the longer you hold a key down, the faster that arrow will whizz across the screen. M is the equivalent to the mouse button, letting you select a certain point on screen (tailor your custom software around this). And that's it really. As far as interpreting the results goes, you'll find the x co-ord and the y co-ord of the arrow will be found in 65485 and 65486 respectively, while 65487 will normally be 0, but will change to 1 when M is pressed. To obliterate the arrow from sight, RANDOMIZE USR 65006. Okay?

Oh, and the other thing is, although JD called it Red Arrow, it's actually black. Must be this Artistic Licence thing I keep hearing about (you must remind me to try it someday).

RAINBOW PROCESSOR

by Dominic Robinson

riginally published as Star Tip 1 in the first ever Pitstop – yes, that's right, this routine is the work of a talented pro; in fact, none other than Dominic Robinson of Uridium and Zynaps fame. The method is a bit complex-sounding, so it'll probably be best if you just try out the demo first. For those wanting to customise it (gluttons for punishment if you ask me), here's Phil's original explanation of how the thing works, edited only very slightly!

To use the Rainbow Processor, you must set up a block of memory containing the colour for each pixel line of your display. This block can be 256 bytes long, although at most 192 will be used at one time, and it must not cross a page boundary. Starting a block at an address which is a multiple of 256 will ensure that this condition it met. For example, 193*256=49408, which is conveniently placed just above the end of the code. Next POKE the address of your data into 49189 and 49190, call the routine at 49153 to initialise the interrupts, then POKE 49188 with the number of pixel lines you want displayed. This value should be a multiple of 8 for best results. Any value outside of the range 1 to 192 will switch off the rainbow effect until another value is used. A restriction imposed by the Rainbow Processor is that, because of the amount of processor time it takes up, there is little available for BASIC or whatever you're using, so the rainbow effect should only be used for title screens and special effects.

So, to start you off, here's a demo program (the second bit) along with the main code, in decimal form (natch). Save the demo with SAVE "demo" LINE 2000. Wait for a minute or two while the picture is drawn, and then goggle at some 'very un-Spectrum-like effects'!

re you cashless and Coupéless? Such a bind isn't it? Fortunately I managed to get hold of one of these marvellous SAM things before the wave of obligatory student poverty hit me (cue violins), but for those of you without one of these marvellous monsters, and with no means to acquire one, don't worry. It's not the end of the world. It probably would be, however, if it wasn't for these next two routines, which, like Miles Kinloch's Onerrorl the other month, allow you to emulate the advanced features of the Coupé's ROM. Sort of.

First of all, Chris 'Another pro' Pile's routine. Pretty self-explanatory, I would have thought this small program lets you fill closed shapes in a similar way to virtually every art program on the market. There is a short demo included (value for money is our middle name, after all), but if you want to use it in a profeshnial manner (ho ho ho) then you'll need to use the following instructions:

osh, these programs are just soooooo useful! This one, Nick should be proud to note, has actually been used in order to compile some of my earlier Pitstops. But what, you may well ask, is a header, and why would one wish to read it? Well, JD anticipated these very questions, and replied succinctly as follows: 'Well, you know when you load a program it goes sort of Beeeeeeeee Blip! Beeeeeeee Blipipipipipipipipipi...? (something like that anyway). Well, the header is actually the bit that goes Beeeeeeee Blip!' So now you know. The bit that goes Beeeeeeee Blip! actually contains a wealth of information relevant to that particular program, and Nick's program, in essence, lets you analyse this data. Just run it, and you'll be asked to play that bit of the tape that goes Beeeeeeee Blip! Once this is done, all the astonishingly interesting characteristics of that particular Beeeeeeeee Blip! are revealed, such as the type, name, start address and length of file. And that is just about it. Beeeeeeee Blip!

And that brings us, unfortunately, to the end of the last Pitstop ever. Tomorrow I'll be returning to Reading for the last week of term and all the festivities that traditionally go with it; plus it'll be my birthday on Sunday, which is another good reason to go out and get nicely smashed (ahem). But throughout all this there will linger that little melancholy flame of sadness, reminding me that the days of Pitstop are, alas, no more. Before I go, though, I'd like to just thank everyone who reads this page, especially those who have sent in programs over the last one and a half years while I've been in charge. It's nice to know that Pitstop has remained refreshingly healthy right up until the end, and it's a good way to go. Live well, good luck, and have fun. Byah!

Serial ports. Hook codes. Just another day at the Sam Cruise detective agency. (Yikes.)

So this is it. The big goodbye. (Sound of detective pouring himself a shot of bourbon.) The rent on the office has been cheap, the hat's still in good nick and the swivel chair still swivels, albeit a little squeakily. But now it's over. (Detective pours another shot in reflective manner.) Ha, we had some good times, didn't we? Well, maybe not. But at least I didn't get lured down an alley and shot, like Adam Waring. Or arrested, too many times. (Lights shine brightly through the windows from the city beyond. A neon sign flickers across the street, filling the night with a fluorescent pink glow. The slight tap of rain on glass can be heard, and, in the distance, the wail of a police siren.). What a gratuitously atmospheric scene. Well, I'd better tidy up the files before closing up the office.

CRACKED!

THINGS THAT YOUR MANUAL NEVER TOLD YOU ABOUT

There's always something, isn't there? Last time I went briefly over the Parallel side of the SAM Coupé Comms interface, so this time it's the Serial bit that's going to get the Spec Tec Jr treatment. And I've been dreading this because I've had to condense over 30 pages of technical data sheets. It was murder. If you need more detail than I go into here, I recommend that you get hold of the IM26C91 UART data sheets (the chip is manufactured by Intersil).

A MATTER OF RS232C...

The main chip in the Comms interface is an IM26C91 UART chip — which in English means that it's a Universal Asynchronous Receiver Transmitter chip. (That's English? Ed) This chip transmits and receives serial signals conforming to the RS232C standards, in asynchronous transmission. (Ye-es. Ed) Ahem. All right, I'll go back to the fiddly bits later. The only thing you need to know for now is that it's RS232 compatible, and the socket is non-standard.

Diagram 1
0 0 1 2 6 7 0 0	0 0 0 3 4 5 8 9
PIN	SIGNAL
2	RXD
3	TXD
4	DTR
5	GND
8	CTS

The reason it's non-standard is because it's based on the PC AT socket. The problem is that although you've got the Receive data

(RX), Transmit data (TX). Data Terminal Ready (DTR) and Clear To Send signals (CTS) coming out of the socket, the Data Carrier Detect (DCD), Request To Send (RTS) and the Data Set Ready (DSR) signals are missing. Look, if it's all gobbledegook to you, go and read up on RS232. (I had to.)

If you can't manage without these signals, you'll, er, have to build another
interface from scratch.
For the rest of us, here's a circuity Diagram 2.

CHIPS AHOY!

Before we start, another of those dead serious Spec Tec Jr warning things. You will NOT jeopardize your guarantee by opening your Comms interface – you are allowed to for the purposes of moving the jumper connectors – but! Neither I nor dear old YS can be held responsible if you manage to destroy your interface through not knowing what you're doing. Remember! A football is designed to be kicked around – an electronics interface is not. Or something.

Turn off your SAM, and (if it's plugged in), unplug your Comms interface. Now get yourself a flat-headed screwdriver and open up the box. If you pull the 9pin din connector, you can slide out the Comms interface circuit board. Try not to touch the chips as you'll probably zap some important components with static, and certainly don't pile up your coats as goals and kick it around for a bit before tea.

Diagram 2 26 PIN CON 2 . . PINS - RESISTOR DIN 7437 OOO S - CAPACITOR 7402 74125 74139 CON 4 00 O XTL O 0 CON 6 CON 1

INCOMPREHENSIBILITY AHOY!

If you compare the circuit to the diagram, the IM26C91 chip is to the right of a set of four jumper' connectors (marked CON4), and above a jumper connector (marked CON6 here, but unmarked on the circuit board itself). CON6 controls whether or not the Comms interface will generate Interrupt signals. CON5 controls the parallel printer interface (it should be in the LEFT position), and CON4 decides which port address will control the Serial chip.

When you get your comms interface, you usually have a jumper connector on CON5, another in the top position of CON4 and nothing on CON6. Depending on the position of the link on CON4, either port 236, 237, 238 or 239 is used for the Serial chip. Initially, the CON4 link is set to port 236. (It should be kept like that too – port 239 is now used by the SAMbus for its realtime clock.)

It is perfectly feasible to remove this link and to solder across the top two pins of the connector – but it will invalidate your guarantee. Anyway, why should you want to do that? The answer is that you DON'T get a linker for CON6 with the interface, which is a bit annoying if you happen to want to use the interrupts for something! If you do want to use the interrupts, solder across the top two pins, steal the linker, chuck it on CON6 and there'll be interrupts a-plenty.

be interrupts a-plenty.

Allegedly some of the output on the interface is inverted. I haven't the equipment to check this properly, so all I can do is warn you that there might be a few screwy things happening in that thar peripheral.

IN ME POWER (HA HA HA!)

There are three read-only registers, five write-only registers, and four read-write registers in the chip. The table below (Diagram 3) shows you what each one is.

buffer is full. If it's reset, then the status of the receiver will make no difference to the RTS signal. (This feature is used in hardware data exchange protocols.)

Bit 6 controls the interrupt handled by bit 2 of ISR and IMR. If it's set, then an interrupt will be generated when the receiver buffer (the FIFO) is full. When reset, interrupts are generated when there is ANY data in the FIFO – not just when it's full. (See ISR.)

Bit 5 controls the error handling. If it's reset, then the status register (SR) only applies to the next character that may be read from the buffer. If it's set, then SR applies to all of the characters that have passed through the buffer since the last ERROR RESET command was made.

Bits 3 and 4 control the parity mode. The only important values for these bits are: 0 – Data with parity, 1 – Data with parity forced, 2 – No parity. A value of 3 is used in the 'special wake-up mode' used in RS232 networks – so I'll be ignoring anything to do with that aspect of the chip.

Bit 2 controls the type of parity used. In 'data with parity', this decides whether the parity is ODD (bit 2 set) or EVEN (bit 2 reset). In 'data with parity forced' mode, this decides whether the parity is MARK (bit 2 set) or SPACE (bit 2 reset).

Bits 0 and 1 control the number of bits per character.
This is either: 0 – 5 bits, 1 – 6 bits, 2 – 7 bits or 3 – 8 bits. (Just subtract 5 from the number of bits per character you need to find the bit values required.)

Diagram 3 Port High Value Read Write Actual Port 00EC 0 MR1,MR2 MR1,MR2 236 SR CSR 492 01EC 02EC 2 Reserved 748 CR RHR 1004 03EC 3 THR 1260 04EC 4 Reserved ACR ISR 05EC 5 IMR 1516 6 CTU CTUR 1772 06EC (CTL) CTLR 2028 07EC

The only tricky thing to notice is that MR1 and MR2 are on the same port. After you read or write to MR1, the chip automatically makes all further accesses to that port go to MR2. To access MR1 again, you need to send a SET POINTER to the CR. It'll make sense by the end of this (honest) as we go over each of the ports in detail.

MODE REGISTER 1 (MR1)

Bit 7 controls the RTS signal – which just so happens to be DTR on the SAM. If it's set then the RTS signal will tell any device connected not to send data when the receiver

MODE REGISTER 2 (MR2)

Bits 6 and 7 control the operating mode of the chip. 0 is the normal TX/RX mode, where the RX (receiver) and the TX (transmitter) operate independently. 1 is the 'automatic echo' mode, where any received data is automatically retransmitted at the same rate as it was received. There are two test modes available – 2 is the 'local loop-back' mode, where the TX line is connected internally to the RX line for test purposes. 3 is the 'rernote loop-back' mode, where the TX and RX lines are effectively connected on the socket.

Bit 5 controls TXRTS. If this bit is set, then the RTS line is controlled by the activation and deactivation of the TX circuits. (See CR.)

Bit 4 controls the CTS line. If this is reset, the CTS line has no effect. If it's set, then data is only transmitted if the CTS line has been asserted (ie is LOW). If CTS is not asserted, the transmitter waits until it is. This is another hardware data exchange protocol.

Bits 0 to 3 control the number of stop bits sent with each character. For characters of length 6-8 bits, values of 0-7 are stop-bit lengths from nine-sixteenths to 1 and values of 8-15 are lengths from one-and-nine-sixteenths to 2 bits in intervals of sixteenths of a bit. For characters of length 5 bits, values from 0-15 are stop bit lengths from one-and-one-sixteenth to 2 stop bits in intervals of sixteenths of a bit. (I just don't understand this at all. Ed)

CLOCK SELECT REGISTER (CSR)

Bits 4-7 select the RX clock. Bits 0-3 select the TX clock. The baud rates available can be derived from the table (Diagram 4).

Value	Rate (ACR = 0)	(ACR =1)
0	50	75
1	110	110
2	134.5	134.5
3	200	150
4	300	300
5	600	600
6	1200	1200
7	1050	2000
8	2400	2400
9	4800	4800
10	7200	1800
11	9600	9600
12	38.4K	19.2K
13	Timer	Timer

Depending on bit 7 of ACR, there are two available sets of baud rates available. If it's reset, then the left hand column of values is used for both the TX and RX clocks. If it's set, then the right hand column is used. There's simply no room to describe the use of the timer for baud-rate generation. (Sorry.)

COMMAND REGISTER (CR)

Bits 4-7 select commands (described below) for the chip to execute.

Bits 2 and 3 decide the status of the TX. If bit 3 is set, the transmitter is disabled. If bit 2 is set, the transmitter is enabled.

Bits 0 and 1 control the RX status. If bit 1 is set, the RX is disabled. If bit 1 is reset, the RX is enabled.

Don't have both bits 0 and 1 or 2 and 3 set at once - that'll confuse the chip.

Commands:

- 0 no command
- 1 Set the pointer so that MR1 is used instead of MR2. (See MR.)
- 2 Resets the RX as if the hardware itself had been reset.
- 3 Resets the TX:
- 4 Clear the error status register. Naturally.
- 5 Reset the signal break detect interrupt. Obviously.

6 - Start signal break

7 - Stop signal break

8 - Starts the counter/timer.

9 - Stops the counter/timer.

10 - Assert RTS (makes the RTS line go low). Blatantly. 11 - De-assert (negate) RTS (causes the RTS line to go high). Instantly

12 - Reset the CTS interrupt bit in the status register, Amusingly. (Snip! Ed) 13, 14 and 15 - Reserved, Do not send these commands!

CHANNEL STATUS REGISTER (SR)

The channel status can be gleaned by reading this. (Oh, hurrah. Ed) Depending which bit is set, various things are happening!

Bit 7 - Break in signal detected.

Bit 6 - Framing error. Set when a stop bit has not been correctly received.

Bit 5 - Parity error. This is set when a character is received and the parity does not correspond to what was expected

Bit 4 - Over-run error. This occurs when data has been lost because the RX buffer was full. Bit 3 - TX empty. When the chip has TX'd all the data it has been given, this bit is set. If data is sent to the chip by the CPU, or the TX is disabled, this bit is reset.

Bit 2 - TX ready. When set, there is space in the TX buffer for more data if the CPU wishes to send it. Similar to TX empty.

Bit 1 – FIFO (RX buffer) Full. This bit is set when the RX buffer is filled to capacity, and requires immediate emptying otherwise any further COD data received may be lost. 4. 8 . 9. Bit 0 - RX ready. When set, there is data in the RX buffer that is available to be read. Similar to FIFO Full, but not as urgent.

RECEIVE HOLD REGISTER (RHR) AND TRANSMIT HOLD REGISTER (THR)

The data read and write registers. (Basically.) Don't forget to check for the appropriate ready signals in SR.

AUXILIARY COMMAND REGISTER (ACR)

Bit 7 decides which of the two sets of baud rates to use. See CSR, and the accompanying table. (Diagram 4.)

Bits 4-6 control the operation of the timer/counter circuits. (Not documented here.) Bit 3 controls the chip's power status. When set, the chip is activated, when reset the chip is deactivated. All the data in the buffers is stored when (de)activation occurs, but it is recommended that the TX and RX are disabled before deactivating the chip. When you first run your routine, you must SET this bit to turn on Bits 0-2 control how the RTS pin on the socket is used by the chip: 0 - Normal RTS mode. 1-5 - Timer/counter/clock signals are output on the pin. 6 - TX empty signal (has the opposite value to bit 2 of SR) 7 - RX eady/FIFO full signal (opposite to bit 2 of ISR).

INTERRUPT STATUS REGISTER (ISR)

This register may be read to see which

d in conjunction with the INTERRUPT MASK REGISTER (IMR). If you want the CPU to be interrupted when a certain condition occurs, set the bit corresponding to that condition in the IMR then, when an interrupt occurs, read the ISR and check that bit. If the conditions have occured. It is bit is set, then that condition has occurred. NB: It doesn't matter what the IMR holds when you read the ISR – all of the bits will reflect their conditions

Bit 7 - CTS input changes state

Bit 6 - CTS input's current state (if high, will cause an interrupt if bit 6 is set in the IMR. NB: This bit is not latched - it holds the value of the CTS when the ISR was read by the CPU).

Bit 5 - Not used

Bit 4 - Counter Ready. (Not documented here.) Bit 3 - Change in break. This bit indicates a change in the RX'd signal from normal to break, or from break back to normal.

Bit 2 - RX ready/FIFO full. See MR1, bit 6.

Bit 1 - TX Empty. Same as Bit 3 of SR

Bit 0 - TX Ready. Same as Bit 2 of SR.

COUNTER REGISTERS (CTUR, CTLR, CTU AND CTL)

I've no space to document these. If you're interested, get hold of the data sheets for info!

BACK TO REALITY

And that's yer lot. Because this is incredibly technical (Yes! Incredibly! Ed) any examples I do will take up roughly a page, and another page of incredible technicalness will no doubt cause you all to flee screaming into the night. Have a fiddle around and see what happens, that's my advice. (But don't blow anything up.)

THOSE +D HOOK CODES

Richard Swann (for it is he) has managed to ferret out the elusive +D hook codes, thus allowing you to use this rather tremendous disk drive interface from machine code. Hurrah!

Use these hook codes in the usual way: ie do a RST 8/DEFB hook. All codes are listed in hex, with the decimal in brackets Code 33 (51) Transfer UFIA (more of that later) into the disk file channel area. The value in IX determines the base address of the UFIA

Code 34 (52) Open a file sector map with the information in the disk file channel area.

Code 35 (53) Does both of the above codes, that is, it opens a file ready to save data to it. IX points to the base of the UFIA Code 37 (55) Save data to the current open file. DE=start address, BC=length.
Code 38 (56) Close a file. You have to do this when you have finished saving to a file.

Code 39 (57) Do the equivalent of a RST 10 (16) to the printer. Code 3A (58) Do a SAVE SCREEN$ 1

Code 3B (59) Get a file from disk ready for loading. IX points to the address of the UFIA. The first nine bytes, of the file are always the last nine bytes of the UFIA, followed by the data for the file itself. Code 3D (61) Load block of data from disk. DE=start address, BC=length. Remember the first nine bytes of the file are not part of the file. Don't read past the end of the file. (Crash!) Code 40 (64) Reset drive to track 0.

Code 41 (65) Erase file on disk. IX=UFIA.
Code 42 (66) Do a SAVE SCREEN$ 2.
Code 44 (68) Read a sector from disk.
A=drive, D=track, E=sector, IX=load address.

Code 45 (69) As above but writes a sector.

Code 46 (70) Opens or closes opentype file. If A=zero then the file is opened from the info in the disk file channel area (so use code 33 (51) first to transfer the UFIA). If A is non-zero then the stream with that value is closed.

Code 47 (71) Pages in +D ROM/RAM. OUT (E7), A (231 dec) to page the Speccy ROM.

This is a 24 byte sector map, with lots of info.

Offset 0 Drive number (1 or 2)

Offset 1 Program number (opentype files)

Offset 2 Stream number (opentype files)

Offset 3 Device type ('d' or 'D' for disk)
Offset 4 Directory description
Offset 5 Filename in ASCII (10 bytes)

Offset 15 File type

Offset 16 Length of file (2 bytes) (Code only) Offset 18 Start address (2 bytes) (Code only) Offset 20 Variable length (2 bytes) (BASIC files only)

Offset 22 Line number for auto run (2 bytes) (BASIC files only)

The directory description byte is either 1 (BASIC), 2 (Num array), 3 (Char array), 4 (Bytes), 5 (48K snap), 6 (Microdrive file), 7 (SCREENS), 8 (Special file), 9 (128K snap), 10 (Opentype file) or 11 (Executable file). The file byte is either 0 (BASIC), 1 (Num array), 2 (Char array) or 3 (Bytes).

CASE CLOSED!

(Detective shrugs on mac and picks up his worn, floppy hat). Well, it's time to pack up and go. (Detective turns to Speccy.) So long, and thanks for all the chips.

(An agitated Ed runs up to the detective and jabbers out a breathless confession.) I see. So you're actually from a small planet in the vicinity of Betelgeuse? Hmrnm. Vogon constructor ships, eh? (Ed hands detective a packet of peanuts.) Just what are you insinuating by saying I don't need any more alcohol to cushion my system? (Hic.) Haha. (Ed presses small techy-looking device into detective's hands.) Oh. Right. The green button, eh? (Detective presses button. Detective and Ed dematerialise seconds before the planet fails to explode noisily.)

So it was all a mistake, then? The Earth wasn't destroyed by Vogons after all? Great. So where exactly are we? It looks like some sort of circus big top. (Detective and sheepish Ed round corner and come face to face with a squad of Killer Klowns.) Uh-oh. Well, readers, it looks as if I'll be traipsing the space lanes for the foreseeable future. Address any letters/comments/requests for detasheets to Simon Cooke, Entropy, 18 Braemar Drive, Sale, Cheshire, M33 4NJ and they'll reach me eventually. Live long and prosper, and excuse me while I run for it. (Detective sprints off into distance, pursued by Killer Klowns. Big top drifts off into space and music swells in a neatly cinematic ending spoiled only marginally by the fact sound doesn't travel in space.)

With Simon Hindle

sort of thang, Simon starts his comms column by referring to this month's Spec Tec Jr.

It's a hard life in communications. Today, for example, I've not only discovered it's the last issue of YS, but there's an agitated Ed's voice coming out of my radio and saying there are only minutes left until a Vogon constructor fleet destroys the Earth, and that it would probably be a good idea to translate myself into a stream of phone tones and modem up into a very safe circus tent currently orbiting the planet. Barely gives me enough time to round off Dial Hard in an exceptionally neat manner, really. (So I'd better get weaving then.)

Hayes-compatible modems

TOODLE-00!

We finished off last month with a surprise twist ending revealing that you could indeed connect a modern other than a VTX5000 to your Speccy - something a bit further up the evolutionary scale, in fact, called a Hayescompatible modem. You need a Speccy with a serial port (actually, a particular type of serial port) so if you've an Amstrad Speccy (a +2, +2A or +3) then you're in luck. All you need is a lead. Not a doggy lead, however, ha ha ha, what an amusing misunderstanding. No, you need an RS232-Modern connector lead, and you can get such a lead at most decent high street computer stores. They probably won't have the specific cable you want right there, but you'll be able to order one. It should cost around £8 and is worth every penny.

However! If you're a wiz with a soldering iron, you can use those skills together with the list of pin-outs at the back of your manual to make yourself a cable for about a quarter of the price. Hurrahl In true Blue Peter fashion, here's a list of ingredients. (It helps if you imagine it superimposed over a picture of John Noakes.) You'll need one (1) BT 6-pin IDC connector, one (1) 25-pin female D-type connector and one (1) Roll of 6-core wire. Also, one (1) List of pin-outs might be useful.

Everything mentioned above is available at Maplin's, Tandy and larger branches of

Etiquette

Since all the previous Dial Hards prodded you in the direction of buying a VTX, it's only polite to deliver the promised massive list of VTX-compatible BBSs. But first, and quite cleverly linked by the politeness motif, a few words on comms etiquette.

There are a huge set of unwritten rules regarding conduct on BBSs - a sort of 10 Commsmandments if you like that sort of crap pun. Don't worry unduly if you break the rules sometimes - the Modem Police won't come and get you or anything. Probably. But I'll give you the basics, anyway, so you won't be inviting cruel ridicule every time you log on to a strange BBS. First of all: smileys.

Smileys convey the mood of the writer. To read them, you tilt them 90° counterclockwise. They usually involve smiling (hence the name smileys, really). People labour night and day to create new ones and the whole thing is threatening to become a complete mini-language in an alarmingly true sense. Sort of like Egyptian hieroglyphics risen again, or something. Anyway, here's a general set to begin with

General Smiley :-)

Next rule. Don't use just capital letters - it hurts the eyes. In other words, CAPSLOCKOVISION IS OUT! So is typing alternately in upper and lower case LiKe This BeCausE it Really DoEs Your Head In AfTeR a WhILE. (Aarghh.) Also, don't ask too many questions - all modern users forget that they too were once beginners (the rogues) and will generally have a go at you if you pester them. (It's a good thing that I'm so nice really.)

One more thing. You might see people using numbers instead of letters - c u l8r m8 (see you later mate) is a good example. Don't do this. It looks incredibly crap.

Mothercare, but one of these is a clever ruse. By the way, if you buy the stuff from Tandy, it'll cost more than from Maplin (I seem to have given away the ruse, there) but there are more Tandy branches scattered around the plains of Britland, so there you go.

The amazing VTX5000 number list

Oh blimey. Er, there actually isn't one. Y'see, Videotex (the standard supported by the VTX5000) is very rarely used these days, and after trying loads of places, I came to the conclusion that the official number list which you get with the VTX has all the numbers on anyway. (Oops.)

Shopping tales

One of the few is the home shopping network. Take a look around - your mum has probably got a home shopping catalogue. (Hey! Nice generalisation, Simon. Ed) Look up the modem number, log on with your VTX and run up a huge bill on your parents' credit cards! Hurrah! (Oh no. Ed)

Quelle dommage

It's a shame we're not all French, really, because the French have got this groovy service called Minitel, which is like Prestel but miles better. Still, Prestel isn't a bad place to start, and you may be able to pester BT into giving you a couple of days free trial access or something. (Hey, it's worth a try.)

Finis

At the risk of sounding like a BG Services representative (which I'm not, honestly. I certainly don't know anything about the numbered Swiss bank account) you really can't do better than drop a line to, er, BG Services, whether you want to know more about the VTX5000 or a Speccy-compatible Hayes-compatible modem, or, indeed, the comms scene in general. (They're ever so knowledgeable.)

As for me, I think I'll take the advice of my radio (setting the video to record Time Tunnel just in case it's a false alarm) and beam myself up to this circus tent. (Oh no! Spec Tec Jr readers.) Goodbye, all!

NUMBERS AND LETTERS

VTX-friendly BBSs - Aspects (061 792 0260), Sirius (081 542 3772) and Speed (0453 51112). Call Exnet on 081 297 1218 or 081 755 0077. BT Prestel is on 0800 200 700. Send a sae to BG Services, 64 Roebuck Road, Chessington, Surrey KT9 1JX for info on the trusty VTX5000, and Hayes-compatible modems.

COMPONINGERS

It's compo winner time again!
Hurrah! Unless you have to type in all the names of the winners, of course. In which case, Boo! (Yes; boo. Jonathan) Yup, below you'll find every single winner from every single compo we've run since February. Erm, except for a few we've missed out of course.

Probably. Or something. Well, enough really short sentences. Let's roll out the YS tombola and see what Lady Luck has in store.

 The following clever crossworders/wordseasphers each win three games for their troubles...

C Cheetham, Chesterfield, Derbyshire (Febish); J Dhillow, Ripley, Derbyshire (Marchish); Lee Pattreyman, Killamarsh, Shetheld (April Ish); Kraig Tudor, Kidermanster, Worcs (May Ish); Simon Eade, High Wycombe, Bucks (June Ish); Darren Langton, Kirkby (July Ish); Alan Portman, Mansfield, Notts (August Ish) and Mark Kirkham, Nr B'burn, Lancs (September Ish) O Ah, true love, eh? RICH'S GUIDE TO YS LINGO

Good evening. If you'd care to take your seats, Professor of Linguistics Rich Pelley will begin his lecture on the peculiar subset of English known as 'YS-speak'. Or something.

Well, Spec-chums, for my contribution to the last ever YS I've been gently persuaded to present a small study into YS-speak. The spooky thing is though that as a reader or, indeed, writer for YS you can't help but pick up on the lingo used in the mag and start using it yourself. Actually, I seem to have started doing it already by addressing you, the readers, as Spec-chums; 'Specchums', I hazard, because you own a 'Spec'-trum, and you are our 'chums' for buying a copy of our magazine. A bit further along I've also used the word spooky. My research suggests that, along with the word blimey, its arrival coincided with that of Matt Bielby. In fact, during Matt's reign as Ed, these words appeared in the mag at times more frequently than full stops. Further research suggests that this was caused by a mildly troubled upbringing coupled with an extroverted inferiority complex complicated by primary imbalance, or something. (A YS phrase in itself, spookily enough.) (Yikes.)

Viz

Viz magazine can also be held responsible for many of our idioms – or more precisely the Viz supplement we gave away with issue 25 when far more people had heard of (and bought) us than them! Implementing the word fnar after everything that sounded a bit rude (this of course proved fatal in a magazine where 'joysticks', 'tips' and, er, 'value for money' were commonplace), double 'fnars' for special occasions and, in exceptional cases, 'fnars' after words that didn't even sound rude at all seemd a good idea at the time. You weren't 'barking mad' or 'rather weird', you were completely hatstand. And if, as a writer, you weren't sure about a fact, rather than spend a precious few seconds checking your sources you simply tacked a bracketed probably after the dubious info. Lying, too, was no problem - the addition of a simple sarcastic honest let you off the hook.

> The Voice Of God (A-ha ha ha. Ed)

The Ed's brackets have led a life of their own during YS, and I'm sure the collective Editorship won't mind me borrowing a few of them here to set as examples. The purpose of these brackets, as in magazines all over the world, is to remind everyone who's boss. When expressing any form of opinion, the humble staff writer or freelancer lives in permanent dread of such remarks as (Eh? Ed), (You're fired. Ed), (Are you quite sure about this? Ed), and (Don't listen to this person - they are quite clearly mad and will be shot at dawn. Ed) appearing when he or she rereads their own article a month or so later. It is this sort of thing that fills the hearts of a magazine's staff with love and harmony for their Editor – not! (Luckily YS never seems to have succumbed to the perils of Wayne's their Editor – not! (Luckily YS never seems to have succumbed to the perils of Wayne's World-y slang. This can most certainly be looked upon as a very good thing indeedy.)

Er, what else? Well, there are everybody's favourites, er, um and erm (with derivatives of anything from one to 100 r's and m's), and there's the fact that everybody seems to say and there's the fact. In addition, YS has poured scorn over the traditional concepts of grammar and sentence construction. Not for us the short, easily legible sentences of dry, unfunny textbooks; we prefer several short, easily legible sentences patched together with stale conjunctions in order to make a long, unreadable one (invariably and in fierce defiance of the educational establishment starting with well). YS and 'correct' English are strange bedfellows (to use a spooky sort of phrase - oh no!). We don't like to say things are diabolical, deplorable or tragic, we prefer to say they are crap. Bits of reviews or articles that serve no reviewing or articley purpose are known affectionately as wibble, with its fraternal wibbly describing people 'going a bit strange'. Any deviation from the topic at hand can be brought back on line with a swift but anyway, and we even like to admit our mistakes. Having found an error in the mag, readers can write in to claim a trainspotter (but will probably end up cruelly ridiculed).

Praise heaped upon praise

Synonyms of 'it's quite good actually' abound. In fact, every other word in YS means 'it's quite good actually'. Probably. We use corking, snazzy, beaut, smart, nifty, gurt lush, gorge, peachy swell, fab and marvy to name but a few – even wazzy until someone pointed out it meant crap. Erk.

YS-speak really comes into its own with exclamations. Whatever your mood, YS has a word for you, or something. (Oh no!) (Yikes!) (Snip! Ed) The world-famous hurrah! has served us well over the years, as has the alarmed yikes!. Wagga wagga was in vogue during the T'zer years, and Duncan McDonald attempted to impress his very own yibble on the populace (but unsuccessfully, as nobody was as completely hatstand as Dunc). How well we remember oh no! and cops! (the YS equivalents of 'It's a nuclear attack', and 'I think I've just set off a nuclear attack' respectively).

Apologetic? Try a fresh ahem. Relieved? Phew fits the bill. A bit antagonistic? You need a newly-picked you bast!, pronounced, of course, with a long 'a'. The list goes on and on, most probably terminating with a slap! from the Ed.

Well then, I've almost come to the end of my word count and I haven't even got round to mentioning hmmm, squillions, utterly ber-illiant (or is that Timmy Mallett?) or oo-er. In factt I've completely run out of page and am going to have to stop there. (Except, of course, to point out that that we vastly overuse the phrase 'in fact'.) (And brackets too.) Class dismissed. (Hurrah! Ed)

YOUR FINAL CHANCE FOR IMMORTALITY and MEGA-SAVINGS: GET A MUITIAGE WHILE YOU CAN - IT'S NOW OR NEVER!

This is really our final GOOD BYE our last ad in the last issue of Your Sinclair... Did you know that we've been advertising in YOUR SINCLAIR since its very FIRST issue? In fact, we are the OLDEST company involved in the Spectrum market - we've been making our software and hardware for over a decade! Why are we the ONLY COMPANY left since the early days? The answer is very simple:

The MULTIFACE!

When the MULTIFACE was launched in 1984. it was an outright winner. No one has ever come up with such a powerful, useful add-on. Labeled the ESSENTIAL SPECTRUM COMPANION, this MULTIpurpose interFACE proved to be an absolute Godsend for the Spectrum users. It was - and still is - the one and only device offering a fully automated 100% back-up This black magic box can stop ANYTHING ANY TIME and SAVE it to disk/cartridge/wafer/tape. When the Spectrum+3 was launched with a built-in drive, it was left to the MULTIFACE 3 to transfer all programs to disks (Multiface 3 is also needed for the black Spectrum +2A/+2B)

So, in case you just came from Mars, what does a Multiface do? First, it sits at the back of your Speccy, its magic button always READY. It has its own ROM/RAM, so it doesn't take up any Speccy RAM and needs no extra software It comes with a full manual, but you will not need it, as the Multiface is fully MENU-DRIVEN.

FREEZE!

Once in action, it freezes everything and it displays its own menu. You can, say, SAVE the program, return to it and continue. If you loose your game, just re-load from where you saved last and play from there again! No need to go back to start all the time. Even better, with the MULTIFACE you can POKE all those infinite lives, ammo, etc., that you read in the magazines, and you will never loose. Each Multiface also comes with a built in TOOLKIT that lets you inspect/alter/dump Speccy RAM. Many top programs were written with the aid of the TOOLKIT and the extra 8K RAM. And do you like the screen shots in this magazine? They are all produced using the MULTIFACE!

When we announced earlier that we were to pull out of the 8-bit market, the surge of interest in the MULTIFACE was such, that we had to make many more. And not just the Multiface - we also have the best ever printer interface the MULTIPRINT (not for Speccy+3 or +2A/B) Our software includes a unique semi-automatic unlimited life finder LIFEGUARD, the GENIE disassembler, and the MUSIC TYPEWRITER. Please send a SAE for full information.

YOU NEVER LOOSE!

You never loose when using a MULTIFACE - it gives you an infinite life, does all the savings for you and makes Spectrum computing fun. Don't use a Spectrum without a MULTIFACE it's a glorious waste of time and opportunities. As this goes to press, we still have some MULTIFACE 3 & 128 in stock, but not for long. So HURRY - the orders will be accepted only when we have the goods and strictly on a first come first serve basis - with up to £15 OFF! We will keep the prices below until 30/09/93, any remaining MULTIFACES will be sold at full price thereafter. Thanks everyone and BYE BYE!

You MUST NOT use our products to copy, reproduce or infringe in any way whatsoever any copyright many copyright owner. We do neither condone nor authorise the use of our products for the reproduction of co	naterial without the permission of the pyright material - to do so is ILLEGAL! (Fade in on badly-constructed cardboard pupper of Peter Snow)

PETER (waggling his mouth out of synch): Well, the excitement here has reached fever pitch. The voting started a month ago, promptly at midday, and they're still coming in thick and fast from all over the world. If you look at the map behind me (gestures to scrappily-drawn map of the world which has two Australias and no South America at all) you can see what would happen if the initial vote was repeated across the globe. ('My Name Is Uncle Groucho, You Win A Fat Cigar' appears in lights all over the map) Yes, a 100% gain for Automata's Groucho. But by 2:30pm that afternoon, we'd had another vote, which totally overturned our initial projection. (Map lights up with 'Crazy Cars 3) Yes, it was a vote for a game which hasn't even appeared on the Speccy. (Map falls off wall. Peter's hinged jaw becomes unpinned)

Oh, it's no use, Spec-chums. We haven't got Peter Snow here with us at all. In fact, this isn't even a TV studio. It's just a mock-up, cleverely constructed out of cardboard and a set of fairy lights from a Christmas tree. If you look really closely, you might even be able to tell our map was actually hand-drawn, and not cut out carefully from a commercially-available atlas or cartographical pamphlet. (But I doubt it.)

No, this small pretence was just an attempt to lend weight to the proceedings of your voting for the YS Readers' Top 100 Games Of All Time. Ah well. It is jolly exciting, though. We've finished wading through the heap of entries, finished typing them all in (phew) and finished snickering at the people who put Street Fighter 2 as their number one game. (Not really.) (Well, yes, actually.) So it looks as though this may be the ideal time to tell you the results.

How it all worked

You'll recall (probably) that the voting works like this: we take your top ten games and award points, from ten down to one, depending on their position in the list. Then we do a bit of mathematical jiggery-pokery and lol your own (your very own) Top 100 list is born. Provided we haven't accidentally counted a couple of games twice. And missed out some others entirely. Or anything. Hahaha.

Head Over Heels! It's one of the best games in the world! But do you agree? Actually, why am I asking you that? What a stupid question. All you've got to do is to turn the page to find out the answer. There's no suspense or tension or anything. Dear oh dear

Before we join the judges

... let's tell you a bit about how the voting went (in a non-commital, suspense-building fashion). For a start, the YS covertapes came off rather well – there were votes for games like the incredibly addictive tile-matcher Peking, the Polish puzzler Jonathan was crap at (but everyone else in the universe found embarrassingly easy, apparently) Logo, and the wonderfully fab (and we're not just saying that) Boulderdash clone Earth Shaker. Even more heartening was the fact that no one voted a YS covertape game as their worst of all time (so we must have been doing something right).

Adventures came off well as well (so to speak), with Fergus McNelll games like The Big Sleaze and The Boggit attracting votes like someone with a bag of sweets attracts friends, and the St Brides laugh riot The Very Big Cave Adventure also winning you over. And then there were the Really Odd ones: an entire Top 10 of SAM games (that must have taken a bit of thinking about, yock yock) and (inevitably) one little tinker voting for all the Dizzy games. How we laughed, later over tea.

The least predictable category was, of course, the Worst Speccy Game Of All Time. It seems most of you harbour personal grudges against games others would consider fairly awful but not capital-punishmentally so, and it seemed fairly obvious you were voting for games you'd wasted hard-earned cash on, rather than following any commonly-held opinion (ie, ours). However, an overall winner did emerge, valiantly fighting off the rest of the pack (despite a laudable last-minute burst by two surprise entries).

All in all, it was a bit of an eye-opener. To be honest, we expected your list to pretty much mirror the official YS Top 100, but... well now, that sounds like a clurnsy link to me. Let's turn the page and see how the voting went, shall we? Raise the curtains! Lower the house lights! Belt out a rousing chorus of Figaro on the old comb-and-paper, because here come the results! (What a showman, Andy)

Street Fighter 2! Some people actually voted this their best ever Speccy game! And it's these people our organisation was set up to help, so please, please give generously.

Street Hassle! It could be a really strong contender for the Readers' Best Game Of All Time! Well, possibly. Actually, not at all. But Jonathan really likes it, and insisted we print this picture.

Where Time Stood Still

Nigel Mansell's World Championship Moon Strike

And there you have it. To be honest,

Chase HO's spectacular victory was a bit of a surprise - we were confidently predicting that the all-powerful

Rainbow Islands would sweep into the top slot, and were expecting the hotly contested number two posish to be occupied by either R-Type or Chaos. As it was, a late burst from Sim City saw off the wizardy wargame, but Chase HQ leapt out of nowhere to finish ahead of the pack. It was a dashed close affair - Rainbow Islands lost by seven points - but you could hear the murmurs as the Mac sorted out the votes and printed up the names of the winners. 'Blimey, the murmurs went. That was a bit of a surprise.'

Moving down the list, we were happy to see both the Skool Daze games and Contact Sam Cruise making an appearance (surely three of the most original games ever) and the huge number of votes for the YS covertape game Peking was really cheering, as was Nige Mansell's Number 99 spot because it obviously meant that after sending off the SOS coupon, people had gone out and bought the game.

128K owners were well-represented, with Pang, Where Time Stood Still (a fantastically atmospheric 3D Doug McClure-'em-up) and International Matchday (and Nige, of course) sailing in despite not being available for the 48K Speccy. And the SAM world was unanimous in declaring the grippingly addictive Astroball the best gameon their machine, with Prince Of Persia (the only serious contender) dropping out fairly early in the game.

Surprise entry of the list had to be Horace Goes Skiing - we thought it the worst of the Horace trio, but you evidently took the alpine adventures of the mutated blue blob to your hearts. Or something.

The Worst Game Of All Time

Now this was fun. The majority of you included a personal worst with your Top 10, and it was crystal-clear from the outset what was going to come top of the heap. But apart from this one title, nearly everybody differed in their opinion of what was the nadir of Speccy gamedom -Friday The 13th, Highlander, Out Run Europa, Bomb Jack 2, Spitting Image, Graeme Souness Soccer Manager and Zip Zap were just about the only ones to get more than a single vote. In the end it came down to a not-very-close contest between three games - Zeppelin's Santa's Xmas Caper, Alternative's The Official Father Christmas (spook!) and The Game We're Really Milking For Suspense. (Ho ho.) Of the two seasonal numbers, Santa's Xmas Caper managed to limp ahead in the closing stages, but it still didn't manage to get quite half the number of votes as the winner. Yes folks, the > Number One Worst Speccy Game Of All Time is, of course, Count Duckula 2. (Told you! Ed) Alternative, and the unknown programmer responsible, we salute you.

The dead important bit

Lawks a lordy, we almost forgot to pick a winner. The recipient of ten fab games (almost guaranteed to be Count Duckula 2 free, ho ho ho) is (rustle rustle) Garry Lancaster of Bristol in Somerset, an active member of the Save Avon Project! (So it might be an idea to change that to 'Bristol in Avon' then. Ed)

CAMES THA THE

Stuart 'Wa-hey!' Campbell, formerly Counter Assistant Of The Year at Cardiff's famous Shoepurmarket, has nothing to do with the following article. But Stuart 'Bet you a tenner I can overturn that Ford Sierra before you sink your pint' Campbell has, for he, coincidentally, has exactly the same name as Stuart Campbell, who wrote it.

There are, at a rough count, loads of Spectrum games. More games, in fact, than for any other games machine that's ever been invented in the world, ever. 10,000 is a conservative estimate, so it's perhaps not surprising that a few have been lost in the wash. These are the Forgotten Ones - the games that got delayed until everybody forgot that they existed at all, the ones that never got finished, the ones that got finished but didn't get released, the ones that got released without being finished, the ones that got finished and released but not bought by anybody, the ones that got - (Yes, yes, all right. Ed). Well, anyway. Here they are, in a sort of reverse order of desirability. All dates are approximate, and Your Sinclair accepts no responsibility for your household pets when you go on holiday.

Looks like a cow, plays like a fish. Er, steers like a wildebeest? No, hang on. (It's always tricky trying to work a stolen joke into a different situation.)

Return Of The Things (Design Design)

Des Des were kinda quaint in writing games where it was the gameplay that mattered, not the graphics. They released a couple of duds (and cheerfully admitted it) but when they were good, they were monstrously good. This, the sequel to Halls Of The Things, was brilliant. It had crap graphics, huge levels and massively entertaining gameplay... and never reached the shops. What a damning indictment of society's shallow attitudes, eh, readers? Tch.

Judge Death (Piranha)

After seeing two abysmal attempts to put Judge Dredd on the Speccy (the first from Melbourne House and the second by the programmers of Dan Dare while suffering from a bout of amnesia or something) Piranha cleverly spotted the connection and decided to ignore Dredd and write a game about his archenemy instead. In a spook reversal, you played a heroine (Judge Anderson) and you had to stop the Dark Judges laying waste to Mega-City One with their own brand of justice (all crime is committed by the living, ergo life itself is a crime). The game was a shooting gallery affair which nevertheless looked quite funky, but before the programmers could finish the game and millions of Mega-citizens could perish horribly, Piranha went belly up and the game disappeared into the dimension void.

Bubble Buster (Hudson Soft/Sinclair)

Cast your mind back, if you will, two or three years. Remember a game called Pang? A little geezer in a pith helmet and safari suit running around bursting big balloon-type baddies with a harpoon, in a coin-op conversion described by one reviewer at the time as 'the most original arcade game I've seen in years'. But now cast your mind back another couple of years, to 1987, when Sinclair released their first batch of Spectrum software in a long time. The five games were all by an unheard-of Japanese development team called Hudson Soft, and one of them was Bubble Buster, in which - blimey! a short dude in a pith helmet was running around bursting big balloon-type baddles with well, you get the idea.

Sigue Sigue Sputnik (Unknown)

'The Fifth Generation Of Computer Games' was the promise made in the between-tracks ad on fabulous pop band Sigue Sigue Sputnik's debut LP. 'The Sigue Sigue Sputnik Computer Game - from your favourite software house NOWI', the advert continued, hence somewhat giving the game away. This one never made it further than a couple of mock-up Commodore 64 screenshots, and that's a real shame. Yes it is.

Eric And The Floaters (Hudson Soft/Sinclair)

Tch. All you fancy high-falutin' SNES owners with your fancy ways, and your four-player Super Bombermans, you think you're so big and hard and clever. Bet you wouldn't feel so smart If you knew your £75 state-of-the-art software started life as a 3-colour Spectrum game, would you? Thought not.

edaptore? Hol Insenely addictive gameplay as your friends try to blow each other up? Er, um, damn

Gyruss (Parker)

Sinclair's ill-fated Interface 2 cartridge port never saw very much in the way of software - a load of utterly pointless port-overs of Ultimate's early 16K games was pretty much its lot. How different things could have been if plans by celebrated Atari VCS game manufacturers Parker Brothers had come to fruition - way back in 1984, they announced imminent Speccy conversions of top coin-ops Gyruss and Star Wars (with several more to follow), which would come on the fab new instant-access ROM carts and sell at the slightly forbidding price of £19.95. Programming proceeded apace, only to be swiftly curtailed when some fool pointed out to Parker that the Interface 2 had sold somewhere in the region of 164 units in the first six months, and the company was never heard from again. Star Wars later surfaced as an ordinary old tape-loading game from Domark, but Gyruss (a sort of version of Galaga with spinning round) was lost for all eternity. Sniff.

Crystal Castles (US Gold)

A bit deliberate, this one. Y'see, US Gold released this, inexplicably, as a 'Limited Edition', which as far as I can remember is the first and last time anybody ever tried such a curious sales ploy in the world of games. It sort of worked, too – the number of people I've ever met who bought a copy could only be described as 'limited'. Even more bizarre, though, was the way USG released the game again on a budget label a couple of years later, in a special 'Could Everybody In The World Buy This Please, We Spent A Lot Of Money On The Licence' Edition. Elitism, eh? It's a fickle master, or something.

TIME FORGOTA

Scooby Doo in The Castle Mystery

And hey, speaking of elitism... sorry. No, really, I'm very very sorry. Anyway, no roll-call of the disappeared would be complete without the game that lent its name to an entire genre. Yep, for a while back in the mid-80s, anything which had more than £10,000 spent on advertising for it without ever coming out was known in the biz as 'a bit of a Scooby', after Elite's would-beseminal Dragon's Lair clone. An ambitious attempt to bring the popular laser-disc coin-ops of the day to the 48K Speccy, Scooby Doo boasted amazing cartoon graphics and, er... oh. Scooby's gameplay was something that the programmers '...just never got round to, really', and the game was set adrift on out-of-memory bliss until it resurfaced as a platform beat-'emup programmed by Faster Than Light/Gargoyle, the people who brought you Lightforce. It was all very nice and everything, but it wasn't quite

Look, I'm sorry to wibble on about things Speccyunrelated, but it just has to be said. Whoever introduced the character of Scrappy Doo to Scooby Doo, Where Are You? should be clubbed to death.

Donkey Kong (Ocean)

Ocean now, of course, is one of the giants of computer software publishing. But as with all giants, the Manchester behemoth had humble beginnings. Starting out in 1983 with the inspirational name 'Spectrum Games', the fledgling firm specialised in unofficial conversions of popular arcade games of the day, and their biggest success almost certainly came with Kong, a hugely terrible version of the coin-op which starred a certain chubby Italian plumber. However, times change, and the renamed Ocean quickly realised that the long-term route to big bucks lay inevitably via official licences. Their Hunchback was the Speccy's first ever licensed coin-op conversion, and a few happy converting years followed until someone decided, (probably as a tribute, I should imagine) to have another go with Mario, making Ocean the only company (that I know of) to do both official and unofficial versions of the same game. And a smart job they made of it second time round too, but it was all just a few years too late and approximately three copies were sold. Shame.

The Great Giana Sisters (Rainbow Arts)

And speaking of Mario, here's another sad case. In the wake of the blossoming popularity of the first Super Mario Brothers game, Nintendo (who'd previously sold Mario's earlier outings in Donkey Kong and Mario Bros to Ocean) woke up to the possibilities of character branding and clamped down on licensing. Rainbow Arts didn't let that worry them, though, as they resurrected the ancient art of the unofficial conversion, throwing in a quick sexchange for the game's protagonists at the same time. Giana Sisters vs Nintendo's Lawyers (the court case) lasted approximately eight seconds. Giana Sisters lost.

Mire Mare (Ultimate)

On finishing Ultimate's legendary and beautiful Underwurlde, you could escape from the castle through one of three exits. Each one promised a different sequel for Sabre Man's next adventure — one exit gave you Knight Lore, another suggested Pentagram (a little-seen game which was basically Knight Lore with shooting in it), and finally there was Mire Mare, which was, er... completely non-existent, basically. To the best of our knowledge, this never made it further than a title.

Moon Patrol (Atarisoft)

Speaking purely personally, one of the greatest days of my Speccy-owning life was when Atarisoft announced that they were bringing some of their classic arcade games to the Speccy in official incamations. Of all the games listed in the early ads, only four (to the best of my knowledge) ever actually made it into the shops - Pacman, which was actually an old unlicensed game by DJL called Z-Man which Atarisoft 'acquired' under legal duress, Pole Position (an under-rated, if a bit slow, conversion of what's surely still one of the definitive arcade racing games), Ms Pacman (now appearing on your favourite handheld console at four times the price), and a truly tragic travesty of a conversion of Galaxians. Curiously though, the best of the ones that were actually completely written never saw a shop shelf. One is this excellent conversion of one of Williams' lesser-fêted coin-ops, the lovely Moon Patrol. Almost perfect in every way, the nonrelease of this baffles me to this day. And that leads me conveniently to...

Moon Petrol – It even had perallex scrolling! (Wowl) Oksy, so your moon rover started parallex-scrolling as well when you jumped because of the way the routine worked, but well done all the same. In fact, hurrahl No, really.

Robotron (Atarisoft)

This still brings tears to my eyes, y'know. Not for myself, because I've got a copy (shhl), but for all you poor Spec-chums out there who'll never get the chance to play one of the finest conversions of one of the finest games ever written. Williams' all-time classic just shouldn't have been possible on our humble 8-colour wonder (Hey, 16 colours! You're forgetting the 'Bright' option! Ed) (Hey, 15 colours! You're forgetting that the blacks count as one! Captain Pedantry) but, with a little 'help' from the programmers of Wild West Hero, Atarisoft pulled off a fantastic job, with almost everything from the original coin-op surviving intact (right down to the two-joystick control option). Robotron got as far as a (rave) review in one mag, but... But what? I don't know, frankly. If anyone from Atarisoft's reading this, and you've got one single good reason why every Speccy owner in the world shouldn't come round to your house and set your family on fire right now, I'd like to hear it. Meanwhile, if anyone wants to play Robotron, simply slip a fiver into an envelope and shove it under the door of -(Snip! ELSPA)

What a brilliant, brilliant game.

S SEE WHAT'

Hello there. I've been asked by YS (following a spook mathematically-improbable time travel phenomenon) to introduce this bit about the other Speccish (and, indeed, SAM-y) fanzines and user groups that are available in this big old universe of ours. What a good idea (I thought). I've even asked my crew to say a few characteristic words about each mag after YS has finished wibbling on. Yes, I know it's a good idea - that's why I'm Captain. Well, let's get started. Warp Four, Mr Data. (Points finger.) Engage. (I am a crotchetty and predictable yet somehow lovable old card, aren't I, readers?)

Mat Beal * 25p * 3 Station Road, Birch Vale. Stockport, Cheshire SK12 5BP Games mag Fish (The Pilot Ish) gets off to a good start with a cover featuring the best pic of Dizzy ever (the narked expression on his face as lardy of Seymour receives the adulation of his ex-fans is priceless) and settles down into a comfy but unexceptional mag. There are plenty of good, critical reviews and a smattering of Useless Top Fives to beef up the text. Fish cunningly circumvents the lack of new software with a section called 'Speccy's Greatest Hits', and there's even a nod to the rest of the computer world with 'The Other Formats Page'. Visually, it's very bland - no screenshots, a couple of badly reproduced photos and a spook newspaper montage on the tips page - but it reads well and sensibly gets most of its facts wrong. Hurrah! Their feet are set on the path to being crap (in a funky skillo sort of way).

Beverly Crusher says

The Thing Monthly Alastair Fairweather ♥ Free! (With a sae) ♥ Hazlemere, Woodthorpe Dr, Woodthorpe, Nottingham NG5 4GZ

Taking a clever and original stance by not mentioning the Speccy at all, The Thing manages to be brilliantly funny and very silly indeed with seemingly no effort at all (the basts). Packed with features like 'The Superheroes' (a comic strip featuring Elvis Man and the world-famous Not Turn Up Man), the libellous 'A Celebrity Writes and 'Heavens Above! A Soap Opera Not Starring Derek Nimmo Due To A Libel Case Against The Thing' (see, told you), it's elegantly DTP'ed and stuffed full of photos

(usually with libelious captions). We have no hesitation in giving The Thing Monthly our coveted Damn Damn Damn We Don't Need This Kind Of Competition You Talented Basts award. Well done

Darren Blackburn ♥ £1.50 ♥ 33 Dawley Bank, Telford, Shropshire TE4 2LQ

The mag that gets more mentions in YS than any other (and we still can't figure out how they manage it), ZAT (pronounced Z-eighty) is solidly behind the Speccy and SAM concentrating on the practical aspects of the machines, with articles on programming, more programming and programming. There are a couple of non-programming bits game reviews and features (like Soapbox, the opinion column which venomously attacks, well, just about everything) mixed in. Design is, er, boxy. with no pics at all, but the text is informative and, er, er (unsuccessfully wrestles with conscience for a few seconds) dull! Deadly dull, in fact. Imagine you're stuck in a desert somewhere. The air is stillingly hot. Boiling winds have whipped the sand into a frenzy. You plod on valiantly, each step an effort, each breath short and horribly sandy. Then, suddenly! you reach a gigantic shiny wall. It stretches in every direction, as far as the eye can see. And, as you look up, it dawns on you that the sky, too, is metal. With horror, you realise the desert is enclosed in a massive, seamless steel box. 'Help!

no one to hear you. Well, this is exactly like... no, hang on. I seem to have got a bit carried away. I was trying to put across the dry, stifling, airless writing style of ZAT, but I seem to have gone slightly over the top. Sorry. (Clot. Andy) But anyway, dry, stifling, dusty and airless it is. Anything deviating even slightly from textbook English is enclosed in quotes Now this isn't a sort of raving vendetta against anything that isn't silly or funny (we at YS like a bit of the old techy business as much as anyone. he confided in a pally manner) but, really prising out the (highly knowledgeable) info from articles frighteningly reminiscent of a civil service report is not my idea of having fun with my computer. Recommended, but only if you're

Malcolm Gent ♥ £1.50 plus sae ♥ 1 Pelham Street, Sutton-in-Ashfield, Notts NG17 2EF Tape version from the same address. Probably. Maybe it's not. Take a risk. Hurrah, a +D mag! Well, actually, it's a tapezine, but! it's also available on lovely +D. so plenty of brownie points there. Alch News is the mag of Alchemist Research (a PD outfit). so there's lots of PD info a-bubbling within. Now on ish eight, the mag's evolved a new and ever so friendly menu system (the early issues did a YS2 and nicked the driver from Sceptical). Content is readable - lots of reviews of other fanzines – but it does tend to be a mite holier-than-thou in its verdicts (everything reviewed is apparently guilty of copyright abuse or ethical lapses). Still, eh? I enjoyed leafing through it though, of course, in

OUT THERE

A quick roundup of things that come on tapes (but aren't tapezines)

Gerard Sweeney of Hackers Anonymous fame has just finished Hack Attack 2. Boasting, er, lots of hacks (certainly more than the original's sixty, anyway) and, er, er, a big scrolly message, it's probably worth getting. If you've got some games you want to cheat at. That is.

In further 'of blah blah blah fame' vein is Jonathan Cauldwell of Haunted House fame, who recklessly insists on writing new games for the Speccy at a rate of knots. His latest releases, Squamble and Shove Off arrived at exactly the wrong moment; ie, when the mag was closing, But! Jonathan (found at 5 Helmsley Drive, Eastwood, Notts NG16 3RS) has put 'em and eight other games on to a Bumper Boogle Pack, priced at £4.99. Well worth the money, we say. (But we're like that.)

Going underground

Steve Anderson (he of the washing machine) has taken the demise of YS on the chin. In with a merry band of freelancers - Simon Cooke, Simon Hindle, Craig Broadbent, Jeff Braine and Phil McCardle - in order to carry on YS as a fanzine. Yes, Your St Clair will be hitting the streets sometime soon Probably. Send a sae to Steve at 52 Norton Bridge Road CF37 4NE and he'll let you know just what the dickens is going on. (Ours is already in the post.)

And to finish...

A huge list of user groups and fanzines that just couldn't fit in the main section.

But wait!

Blimey, we seem to have completely forgotten about the Star Trek motif. Er, Cap'n, dilithium crystals, the Borg, live long and prosper, holodecks, we come in peace. There. Phew.

The others we didn't really have room for SAM Supplement A reliably entertaining SAM disk mag. Send an sae to 37 Parker

> St. Bloxwich, Walsall WS3 2LE for details. SAM Prime Another SAM disk mag, from the same stable as ZAT, and just as hard-going, but equally informative and knowledgeable. Sae to 19 Lyme Ave. Macclesfield Cheshire SK11 7RS nets you the

gen. FRED The best-known of the SAM mags, wobbling a little (the last-but-one ish was dreadful) but usually good fun. It's just a pity most of the mag is taken up with plugging FRED's other releases in one form or another. £2 an ish, call # 0382 535963 for - no! It can't be! But it is! - the details. The Independent 8-Bit Association A proposed user group for all 8-bit computers. We're stressing the word 'proposed' here nothing's yet been set - but things are looking good, with plenty of mags and PD bods expressing support for the idea. Among the things being 'proposed' are 8-bit stands at computer fairs where you can buy stuff for your Speccy, SAM or, indeed, Dragon 32, Jupiter Ace or Vic 20, and free rubber sharks for people to hang from their ceilings, althought that last bit's a lie. Send a sae to the ZAT address for - could it be? Yes! - the details, Zenobi Software Mail order adventure game company with loads of titles at eyewideningly reasonable prices including all the Delta 4 and St Brides numbers, found at 26 Spotland Tops, Cutgate, Rochdale, Lancs OL12 7NX, and the only way you're going to get hold of Bugsy Part 2. Yikes. Spellunkler Spellunkler? Shouldn't that be Spelunker? But I digress. It's an adventure fanzine unusually printed on sideways-A5 like a book of raffle tickets or summat. Loads of tips for spelunkers (or spellunklers, whatever) stuck in those blessed Caves of Stupidlynamedthing (or whatever). Available from 11 Finsbury Drive, Wrose, Bradford BD2 1QA for £1.50 - cheques to J Waddington

(but not the one of Monopoly fame). Amiga Wibble So new the ink's not yet dry on the disk labels, this 'un's an Amiga disk-based fanzine with! a Speccy section. Novel and quite funky. Well, it could be, anyway. We haven't actually seen one, but just liked the name. Sorry. Anyway, blah blah blah sae blah blah to Richard Holden, 13 Lansdowne Ave. Audenshaw, Manchester M34 5SZ will blah blah details blah blah bloop. (You're just not trying, are you? Andy) Oh, and RDS (which is reviewed at lightning speed just over there) is obtainable by sending the very-nearly-£9 sum of £8 to Robert Dixon at 24 Chelsea Park Easton, Bristol BS5 6AG. (1, for one, greatly appreciated the calming effect of this program on Brian, the elder of my hand-reared platypus twins." - TB Falsename.)

Captain Picard says:

DETECTIVE LIEUTENANT COOKE INVESTIGATES

Greeting Earthlings. (Oh dear. I'll never get the hang of this Star Trek stuff.) Er, I'm here in a cameo rôle to tell you about RDS's Research Disassembler and Workbase. (Oh no! Thousands of non-techy Spec-chums) This monster of a program is a great technical achievement - it squishes itself into the measly size of 5449 bytes (not including the 13 required for relocation). Wowzers.

RDS can diassemble backwards, recognise all the undocumented opcodes, keep track of your stacks (wa-hey), and (and! And!) reset them for you. It also has 'an extensive calculator library' - but I couldn't work out what it meant by that. (It's probably really neat, though.) Calculations can be entered as expressions - including floating-point numbers - and the prog decodes all the hidden bits in BASIC loaders. It can trace code and then SAVE it to tape or print it out. You can skip NOPs during disassembly for easy reading, disassemble from negative addresses and disassemble along the program path. It's also completely crashproof, no matter how madly you fiddle with delicate memory areas. (Dashed cunning.)

As well as the main RDS program, there are also extra utilities that sidle up and rub against it in a most cat-like manner. These include a variable lister and a brill routine to show the current state of the Z80 registers. Also, there's a ROM scanner - utilise ROM routines in your own programs. (Shriek! Ed) And! a prog scanner (for finding overwritten sections in your programs), a tape-header reader and an extensive op-code library. Nearly all the program code is relocatable, so you can stash them wherever you want and still program happily along. Amazing.

It does tend to decide what you 'want' to see (the rogue) and, alas, doesn't support ROM or RAM paging (yet) but it is, overall, a most marvy piece of code. Somebody transfer it to the Multiface immediately! (Blimey. I'm off to catch my breath.) Simon Cooke

WE'D HAVE GOTTEN AWAY WITH IT IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR YOU MEDDLING KIDS!

Why, the Glowing Ghost was kindly old Mr Zingleblaum, the man we least suspected!

Good work, gang. But now we've got a bigger mystery to solve - the Speccy software publishers are pulling out of the market!

In a caddish move, software publishers everywhere are leaving the Speccy market. 'It's too small,' they complain. 'Our sales are crap,' they add. Yeah? Where would you be if vast numbers of Spec-chums hadn't bought your games to start with? we reply in a hard-hitting fashion. But our donkey of truth tumbles into the half-filled sand pit of obstinancy. So it's time for a little direct action. Spec-chums of the world unite - Save Our Speccy is back!

Dah dah dah dit dit dah dah dah

You all remember the first SOS campaign - it got Nigel Mansell's World Championship released because of the enormous number of people who sent off the coupon to Gremlin. (Thanks. Gremmers.) Well, now it's back. Software publishers are hard-headed business peeps, you see. They think in terms of unit sales and profit and stuff. So let's jolly well show them there are enough Speccy owners out there ready and willing to buy games in order to spur them into releasing new ones and making some dosh. We know they can release great games (not just re-releases or bosh jobs knocked out because nobody cares about the Speccy any more') so let's give 'em a little incentive. Make your feelings known! We shall not, we shall not be moved. My old man said follow that van and don't dilly-dally on the way. (Etc.)

I am the proud owner of a ZX Spectrum. You used to release games for my machine. But now you've stopped. You say that people don't want them any more. Well I do, and so do hordes of Speccy owners everywhere.

I know you can produce great games when you put your minds to it - but you have to realise I'm not satisfied with re-releases. I want new games for my Speccy as well, and I'm prepared to pay

Now that's an offer you can't ignore.

good money for them.

(Speccy owner and Your Sinclair reader) Address

The Speccy is the most popular home computer of all time. Do you know that most console owners have Speccies as second machines? (Thought that might attract your attention.) The Speccy isn't dead - they're out there, but you're just not supporting them.

PS If you're really serious about pulling out of the Speccy market, please don't let your games rot in a cellar somewhere. Why not put them in to the public domain so future generations of Specchums can enjoy them as I have?

Everybody who ever worked on Your Spectrum or Your Sinclair. Even the publishers. Whatever they did. (Snort.) (You're fired. A Publisher) Oh, now I remember.

Oh no. How do you squeeze the credits into this small a space? Well, let's give it a shot. Your Sinclair's Big Final Issue was brought to you by Editor Jonathan Nash Art Editor Andy Ounsted Transcriber Of Complete Guides Steve Anderson Cover Art Paul Kidby The contributors had a really big credit on their features, so that saves some space And everyone else is up there in the Flannel Panel From Hell I think we've just about got away with

it Phew

Traditionally the Ed gets all blubby and reflective on the last page and thanks loads of people in a Dickie Attenborough fashion, but is that the YS way? Crikey, no! So get yourself a small plastic bag, fill it with water, twist the top closed, tighten and knot it. Now run outside and hurl it at the nearest body of people, shouting, 'This one's for Spec-chums everywhere!' Hurrah! (You're under arrest. A policeman) Lawks, what a surprise ending. (The Ed is dragged away.) Remember, folks! (Struggle.) Be crap to each other! In a funky skillo sort of empt.

Well, that's it then. The end of YS. The Shed looks so bare now
